Demos Unanimous In Praises, GOP Calls It Worst In Years

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Legislature headed home today labeled either the best or worst in recent history.

Republicans and the AFL-CIO claimed the marathon six-month session produced little good and some bad legislation. Democrats from Gov. Edmund G. Brown on down were unanimous in praising the work of the Senate and the Assembly, both dominated by Democrats.

(See also story, page 3.)

The record showed these positive achievements:

1. A narcotics program calling for stricter penalties for pushers and peddlers and a new seven-million-dollar program of treatment for addicts and strict parole supervision once they are released from a state rehabilitation center.

2. A major change in education with more emphasis on fundamentals for both the prospective teachers and the kids in the elementary schools. The lawmakers approved programs aimed at benefitting the mentally gifted child and provided for statewide testing of pupils so that districts can find out if they rank above or below the statewide average in academic excellence.

3. A series of bills, political in nature, dealing with elections. The key measure, backed solidly by the 47-33 Democratic majority in the Assembly and the 30-10 Democratic margin in the Senate, draws up new lines for the state's 80 Assembly and 38 Congressional districts. It was the reapportionment bills that drew the principal fire from Republicans.

Labor was dissatisfied because it failed to win passage of its big bills—a $1.25 statewide minimum wage; repeal of the jurisdictional strike act and the enactment of a fair labor standards act. It did win lim-

New Leftist Riots Greet Stevenson

LIMA, Peru (AP) — New leftist rioting greeted Adlai Stevenson yesterday on his arrival in Lima to discuss President John F. Kennedy's plan to raise Latin American living standards. Heavily armed police braced for new disorders today.

Leftist students, who had proclaimed Stevenson unwelcome even before he arrived, demonstrated repeatedly in small groups in downtown Lima. Police dispersed them with tear gas. No injuries were reported.

Stevenson, given a friendly welcome at the airport, was far away from the demonstrations at the U. S. Embassy. Later he quipped to reporters: "I like all Peruvians, including students."

This is the third country in succession in which violence coincided with Stevenson's arrival on his tour of Latin America.

After conferring today with leaders of Peru's five political parties, Stevenson will end his visit with a dinner at the residence of the prime minister tonight.

Nation's Shipping Gripped By Strike

Mediators Urge Talks To Resume

NEW YORK (AP) — The creeping paralysis of a major maritime strike spread to seaports around the nation today as federal mediators pleaded for a full resumption of peace talks. There were reports that a federal injunction might be sought by one shipping group.

Thirty port cities and almost 1,000 freighters, tankers and passenger liners are involved in the strike, which began last Thursday midnight.

Major snarls to a settlement are a shippers' claim that the striking unions threatened to price the industry out of existence, and union demands for the right to organize "foreign-flag" shipping.

With White House intervention to head off the walkout a failure, pickets in New York, New Jersey, Louisiana, Texas and Massachusetts and other shipping areas marched at piers to halt work.

Violence flared. Three men were injured in a fight yesterday when Texaco refinery workers near Camden, N.J., tried to cross a picket line set up by the National Maritime Union. Four persons were arrested.

Federal officials intensified efforts to get the seven unions representing 85,000 seamen and the bulk of the nation's shipping operators back to the bargaining table.

They worked amid reports

Warehouses Struck By ILWU, Teamsters

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) Longshoremen and teamsters last night called a strike that could involve some 25,000 men in 750 warehouses throughout Northern California.

The walkout was ordered after negotiations collapsed between the two unions and four Bay Area employer associations. New wage talks were scheduled to resume today in San Francisco.

A joint Teamsters and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union negotiating committee says if a settlement isn't reached about 10,000 employees will be out of work by Monday and pickets will be posted. Most warehouses are closed until Monday so a strike would have little effect until then.

The unions are demanding a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase, improved vacation and sick pay and other benefits. Employers offered a boost of five cents an hour and said the unions received a 21-cent-an-hour increase last year.

Retailers estimated that a strike would have little effect on the consumer at first because staple products such as meat, vegetables and milk wouldn't be involved. Processed foods, such as mayonnaise and coffee, would be affected, however.

Guilty Verdict In Drug Price Fixing Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The U. S. Department of Justice was today expected to initiate price-fixing action against druggists across the country on the basis of winning a test case against the Northern California Pharmaceutical Assn.

A federal court jury of nine men and three women yesterday deliberated four hours 15 minutes before returning its verdict. Also found guilty was co-defendant Donald K. Hedgpeth, past president of the Association and author of a controversial price-fixing formula.

The association and Hedgpeth were found guilty of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by formulating a schedule recommending prices that should be charged for prescription drugs.

Hedgeth, 54-year-old San Francisco pharmacist, could be sentenced to a year in prison and be fined $50,000, while the association also faces a $50,000 fine. U. S. District Judge Louis E. Goodman set June 22 for sentencing. At that time he also will hear a defense motion to set aside the verdict.

Deartment of Justice Attorney Lyle L. Jones said "the verdict will go far to eliminate restraints of trade in areas where cases have not yet been brought."

Czech 'Spy' Charges Go To U.N.'s Dag

COMBINED AP AND UPI

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — U.S. spy charges against a Czech diplomat and his counter-claim that American intelligence tried to hire him landed on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's desk today.

Central figure in the drama is Miroslav Nacvalac, 39, No. 3 man in the Czech U.N. mission. He declared he will ignore U.S. demands that he leave the country until he gets instructions from his government.

A U.N. spokesman said Hammarskjold is studying a U.S. request that Nacvalac be expelled on grounds he had been collecting information from an American government worker for almost a year.

Also before the secretary-general was a protest from the Czech U.N. mission claiming U.S. agents had dangled promises of unlimited wealth before Nacvalac if he would become a spy for the United States.

In Passaic, N.J., it was revealed by members of her family that a 51-year-old American woman is being held in Czechoslovakia on espionage charges.

John Kozeradsky, a machinist, said his wife Helen has been held captive in the Iron Curtain country since last September.

H-Bomb Clumsy Beside 'Death Ray' Of Future

WASHINGTON (AP)—A "death ray" bomb that would kill all life in its target area has been discussed as the weapon of the future. But just how far in the future is worrying at least one senator.

The projected bomb—which might make the awesome hydrogen bomb seem clumsy—is called the neutron bomb, and it has been thrust back into the news by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn.).

Dodd hinted the Russians could be secretly experimenting to develop the neutron bomb while the United States is honoring an atom-test moratorium.

He put forward such a possibility as an argument for resuming tests.

Dodd—who referred to the neutron bomb as "a kind of death ray"—said in a Senate speech Wednesday that the bomb "would do next to no physical damage. It would result in no radioactive contamination. But it would immediately destroy all life in the target area."

Dodd, in warning of the possibility of the Russians developing such a bomb, said it was one way "for destroying us at relatively small risk to themselves."

Scientists have speculated on two possible versions of the bomb:

1. A small nuclear reactor that would shoot radioactive neutrons through a lead tube.

2. A scaled-down version of an atom bomb tailored to give out more neutron radiation than bomb producing energy. In conventional A-bombs, 85 per cent of the energy causes blast, shock and heat; the rest is radiation.

Fog Helps Bring Cooler Weather

Thin, cool fog over much of Marin this morning sent the mercury shooting downward from yesterday's 100-plus heat.

It was a "chilly" 72 degrees at noon today in San Rafael, as compared with over 100 degrees in most of the county yesterday.

The weatherman predicted cooler weather today inland to Sacramento and Stockton areas, and a downward trend over most of California.

Warring Laos Princes Agree To Seek Unity

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, pro-Western Laotian military strongman, said today the kingdom's three warring princes have agreed to seek formation of a "government of national union."

Phoumi issued the statement after a meeting between Premier Prince Boun Oum, and his pro-Communist rival, Prince Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao guerrillas.

"We are all in perfect agreement," Phoumi told newsmen. "We are now going to seek formation of a government of national union."

The two princes met following a preliminary huddle yesterday between Boun Oum and Prince Souvanna Phouma, self-styled neutral who claims to be rightful premier of Laos.

Immediate aim of the three rival princes will be to decide on a single delegation to represent Laos at the Geneva conference, which has bogged down in efforts to make the Southeast Asian kingdom peacefully neutral.

Phoumi said earlier the items the three princes will take up will be application of the cease-fire in Laos where scattered jungle fighting continues, the country's neutrality and "national reconciliation."

Referendum Campaign In Home Stretch

The referendum campaign to save the county administrator's office from the chopping block went into the home stretch today in a nip and tuck battle against time.

Signatures of 5,319 registered voters of Marin are needed to stop the county supervisors from abolishing the office of county administrator. But the bulk of the job must be done this weekend because petitions must be turned in to area chairmen Monday.

Morris Finisy of Fairfax, county chairman of the drive and member of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, said he thinks that close to 5,000 signatures have been obtained,

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Danced It Away

CLEVELAND (AP)—Miss Hazel Tipton, 36, a typist seeks repayment of $15,840, which she paid for dance lessons, and $25,000 in punative damages in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court Friday against the Arthur Murray Dance Studio.

She charges that she was "danced, talked, flattered, cheated and swindled" out of the $15,840 in a two-month period in 1959.

Robards Up In Air

NEW YORK, June 17 (UPI)—Actor Jason Robards flew in from Paris yesterday, but his plans to marry actress Lauren Bacall were still up in the air.

Robards, who was prevented from marrying Miss Bacall in Vienna where authorities refused to recognize his Mexican divorce from his second wife, said he did not know when the marriage would take place in the United States.

Miss Bacall, widow of Humphrey Bogart, did not fly in with him, Robards said, because "I guess she wanted to stay in Paris and have her hair fixed."

Angola Terrorists

LUANDA, Angola (UPI)—Bands of terrorists hemmed in by Portuguese troops were reported today making desperate attempts to fight their way out of the trap.

With strong army units sealing off their easiest escape route to the north across the Congolese border, the rebels were apparently trying to break through to the south.

The latest indications of their moves were found in reports that they have destroyed bridges on roads leading from Caxito, north of Luanda, to Ucua and Pango Aluquem, an important coffee center district which has thus far been spared any terrorist activities.

The military action apparently is aimed at the southern fringe of the terrorist "pocket."

Independence

LONDON—Britain's West Indies colonies will become an independent federal state within the commonwealth next May 31, it was announced today.

The colonial office issued a communique at the conclusion of the West Indies constitutional conference which said:

"It can now be revealed that colonial secretary Iain MacLeod assured the conference that subject to acceptance by West Indian legislatures of the scheme which emerged from the conference her majesty's government would take the necessary steps to introduce legislation to grant the West Indies independence on May 31, 1962."

Thailand Defense

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—Deputy Premier Thanom Kittikachorn said last night Thailand is preparing to defend itself against possible communist threats because there doesn't appear to be much prospect of help from its SEATO allies.

Thailand is one of the countries that would be menaced by the Reds if they succeed in taking over Laos. Thanom said he has no doubts that the Reds will take control of that country.

"We are going to act on our own . . ." he said. "Communist-backed factions in Laos have been receiving increased military equipment and manpower from Russia and (North) Vietnam.

Girl, 7, Drowns

HAPPY CAMP (UPI) — Laura Joy Nichols, 7, drowned yesterday in the Indian River four miles north of here. It was Siskiyou County's third child death in as many days.

The girl was caught in the current while swimming in the river. Two men pulled her body from the water about a quarter-mile downstream from where she had been swimming.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Nichols of Scotia.

Paris Bombing

PARIS (UPI) — The bombing last night of a mailbox near President Charles de Gaulle's official residence highlighted a new wave of terrorism in France and Algeria.

The mailbox on the fashionable Rue du Faubourg St. Honore was wrecked by a plastic bomb of the type used by rightist foes of de Gaulle's Algeria policy. Three persons were injured, including a Briton.

The blast caused extensive material damage, smashing the show windows of fashion salons and other shops and damaging nearby buildings and parked automobiles.

Integration Try

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A challenge by a group of Negroes of the city's sale of two Jacksonville municipal golf courses has failed.

U. S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson dismissed yesterday a petition that sought to invalidate the sales on grounds they were a subterfuge to avoid integration under a federal court order.

Five Marin County residents were honored yesterday for 20 years service with the Army Corps of Engineers, and two for 10 years service; a combined total of 120 years on the job.

Each was presented a service pin and certificate of commendation.

Honored for 20 years were: Marjorie F. Stumper, 52 Jelson Avenue, Mill Valley; Warren H. Rice, 44 Diane Lane, Larkspur; William H. Scott, 45 Seafirth Road, Tiburon; Ida M. Lamberton, 2090 East Centro Tiburon, and Alton R. Nelson, 25 Willow Street, Corte Madera.

Drowning Attempt Trial Due

Ray Vernon Mitchell, 30, of 605 Glenwood Avenue, Mill Valley, accused of trying to drown his common-law wife at Stinson Beach last month, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday afternoon.

Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety said Mitchell will be arraigned in superior court on a felony charge, probably on the morning of June 26.

Mrs. Sadie McKeen of San Francisco, also known as Sandra Mitchell, testified against him yesterday in a preliminary hearing before Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Municipal Court. She said she had been living with him prior to the incident, which occurred at Stinson Beach on May 19.

Mrs. McKeen said she and Mitchell drove to Stinson Beach that afternoon, had a few drinks at the Surf Club, then drove south. She said she argued with him about his drinking. "The next thing I knew, he was slaping me on the face."

He stopped the car, and she got out. She does not recall whether or not he pushed her, but she found herself falling down a six-foot embankment.

Mrs. McKeen said Mitchell then took her by the arm and neck and pushed her into the water about waist high. He then held her head under water for about a minute, she testified.

She said he scarcely spoke during the entire incident. She recalls only that he said "Looks like good swimming" as they stood above the embankment, and "Hon, what are you doing?" when she fell down the embankment.

She scrambled up the bank when he let go of her and stopped a passing car for a ride into San Rafael to complain to sheriff's deputies. She said she suffered a black eye, puffed lip, and bloody nose from his back-hand slaps.

Tamalpais School District Budget Review Set Monday

A tentative budget for the next school year, which is $665,730 higher than for this year, will be reviewed Monday night by the Tamalpais Union High School District board.

The tentative budget totals $4,528,827 compared with the current budget of $3,863,097.

The present tax rate is $1.75 per $100 assessed valuation.

The tax rate necessary to raise the additional money for next year will not be known until the assessed valuation is known. The district has a limit of $1.90 per $100 assessed valuation.

Biggest item on the budget is for instruction. The proposed budget calls for $2,257,060 compared to $1,906,219 for this year. This increase is due to a new salary schedule and addition of new teachers.

The total expenses for the coming year are estimated at $3,570,133 compared to $3,140,190 for the current year.

NEW BUILDING FOR NURSERY SCHOOL

This is architect Michael Wornum's conception of new building for Tamalpais Nursery School in Mill Valley, to be completed on Methodist Church property at Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue in time for opening in September. Building will give more room to school that has outgrown quarters at Baptist Church of Mill Valley. The Methodist Church is cooperating with the nursery school in the building venture and will make use of the structure for its Sunday school classes.

Belvedere Meeting

The Belvedere Planning Commission will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the city offices instead of the community hall to discuss the revisions in the map of the western island tidelands subdivision, according to chairman George Goddard.

Blackwell Produces 'Ifs' On Variance

Mill Valley City councilman George Blackwell agreed Thursday night to drop his variance request which comes before the Marin County Planning Commission Monday—with a couple of "ifs."

He'll drop it, he said, if:

1. Thomas Bradley, who owns the lot next to his substandard lot, will agree to pay the fee for the lot line, and

2. The group of Homestead and Almonte property owners, protesting granting of the variance, will endeavor to see the owner of the substandard lot on the other side of Blackwell's property so that Blackwell can purchase that lot and thus have a standard lot.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Jo Schlesinger with 15 property owners present. It was called to see if the residents could do something about Blackwell's request for variance to build on his substandard lot. Citizens said that the surge of building on substandard lots is creating "slum conditions."

The property owners agreed to Blackwell's suggestion and will try to contact the owner of the adjoining lot.

Corte Madera Meeting Set On Budget

The Corte Madera town council will review the preliminary 1961-62 budget at its meeting at 7:30 p.m., Monday.

Although the budget will not be ready until Monday, Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow said the proposed budget will not call for any increase in the tax rate.

The council will hear a report from its committee on the proposed tree ordinance. The public hearing on this ordinance last week stirred up a storm of protests.

The council will hold public hearings on two revisions of the zoning ordinance. One would change phraseology in the section concerning free-standing signs in the commercial zone and the other would integrate an older sign ordinance with the zoning ordinance.

The council will also make appointments to the park and recreation commission for a term to expire June 1, 1965, and to the Larkspur-Corte Madera joint recreation commission for the two-year term that begins July 1, 1961.

The parking plan at San Clemente school will also be reconsidered by the council. It rejected the plan last week.

Burton Rockwell of the firm of Reid, Rockwell, Banwell and Tarics, architects for the school, met with the council Wednesday night and asked reconsideration.

Other items to be considered by the council include Marina Village drainage problem, the facilities fee for Mariner Cove, and the plan for Phase 2 of Paradise Drive construction.

Guide Dogs Hit Cellophane Rumor

There is no validity to the rumor that a Guide Dog may be obtained for some blind man or woman by saving the red cellophane tape from cigarette packages, according to William F. Johns, executive director of Guide Dogs for the Blind in San Rafael.

The rumor, which appears with surprising regularity, has recently come to life again, Johns said, through telephone and mail inquiries to the school.

According to Johns, none of the training centers in America needs or wants the red tape. Yet despite concerted efforts to kill it, the story continues to pop up.

Russ Ballet Star Leaps To Freedom

PARIS (UPI) — The star male dancer of a Soviet ballet troupe made a dramatic break to freedom today, shaking off two burly Russian guards and gaining protection of French police.

Rudolf Noureyev, 23, made good his escape at Le Bourget Airfield as he was being hustled aboard a waiting plane.

"Protect Me! Protect me!" he cried out to two startled airport police. They took him into custody when he appealed for political asylum.

The young dancer's break with Communism provided a surprise climax to the successful run in Paris of the Kirov Opera Company from Leningrad. Noureyev, the male star, was compared favorably with the famed Nijinski in his heyday by one French critic.

The troupe's next stop was London.

Noureyev was accompanied by the dance master and two other Russians, whom police sources said had "semi-official functions," when he appeared at Le Bourget to go through customs and police formalities.

Suddenly he blurted out: "I want to stay in France."

The Russians called the Soviet embassy.

The Russian counsul, the embassy attache and two other officials tried to argue Noureyev into changing his mind. But he refused and police took him to the Ministry of the Interior to make a formal request for asylum. Authorities said it probably will be granted.

Noureyev, who had been with the Kirov company since his early teens, became its star male dancer about a year ago.

Correspondence Schedule Sole Supervisor Item

County Administrator Alan Bruce, however jeopardized by supervisors' efforts to discharge him, will contribute several letters of information and recommendation to the lengthy correspondence schedule which is the sole agenda item of business for the 2 p.m. Monday session.

Bruce has written on personnel operations, administrative consideration in mental health program proposals, revisions in emergency ambulance zones, the master service agreement between Marin and the City of Novato, and the Marin County exhibit to be shown at the approaching state fair.

Undeterred by the supervisors' effort to fire rather than hire, Andrew H. Trice has written to offer his services as economic consultant. But the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. writes from the economy standpoint on various budget matters.

By a recent supervisor decision the board approved a $2,000 contribution to the Junior Museum, $500 to the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce for Novato Western Weekend, $500 for the West Marin Livestock Show, $500 for the Sausalito Regatta, $500 for the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, and $1,200 for the Marin County Historical Society.

Continued matters including two adjusting applications from the Planning Department will be taken up at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Budget Meeting Set

There will be a budget meeting held by the Mill Valley City Council at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the city manager's office at which time budgets for the library, city attorney, city treasurer, city planning department, building inspector and fire chief will be discussed.

Cultures Of Blossoming African Nations Date Back For Centuries

By MILES A. SMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—The "new" nations blossoming out on the map of Africa have primitive tribal cultures dating back many centuries. That is the gist of the message in a recently opened exhibit at the Museum of Primitive Art.

About four of those centuries are covered in the display, titled "The Traditional Arts of Africa's New Nations." Through Sept. 10 the Museum's galleries will be given over entirely to the African theme, showing about 100 objects, mostly from the Museum's own collections.

There are 20 countries represented, and some of their names are unfamiliar to many of us—Upper Volta, Mali, Chad, Malagasy. Others are better known, such as the Congo (Brazzaville) and (Congo) Leopoldville), Ivory Coast, Liberia, and Nigeria.

MODERN DEBT

Masks of the ceremonial type, of course, are well represented. As everyone knows, modern art owes a debt to these exotic characterizations, which became an inspiration to the School of Paris early in this century.

There also are figures of every size, from small ivory or brass sculptures to the larger ones in wood, clay and stone. The largest is an ancestor figure from the Dogon tribe of Mali, carved from wood, with upstretched arms reaching almost to seven feet.

One of the oldest is a bronze leopard more than a foot long, from the ancient kingdom of Benin in Nigeria. It is a symbol of royal power, like the lion in Great Britain.

A PUZZLE

There is one head, carved from stone, that catches the eye from the artistic standpoint, but it is a puzzle so far as origin is concerned. It was excavated in the Sierra Leone, where the natives have no explanation for it, except to assume it is a god.

There are utilitarian items too, such as the throwing knives made of iron in pinwheel shape, from the Congo; a sword and scabbard from Senegal; a water jar and woven basket from Somalia.

When you consider the ritual value of all the masks, animal headdress and figures, it occurs to you that all these "objects of art" actually were made for spiritual or human uses.

Many of the human images are fertility symbols, or resting places for the spirits of the dead, or symbols of tribal authorities. Thus, because of their serious nature, they have not been depicted in humorous style.

With that in mind, one wonders about a pair of carved wooden figures, male and female, from the Baule tribe of the Ivory Coast. Their deadpan expressions remind you of the man and woman from Iowa in Grant Wood's "American Gothic."

16 'Ragged' Eighth Graders Suspend At Davidson School

Sixteen eighth-grade boys were suspended on the last day of the school yesterday by the vice-principal at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael for wearing shorts and torn clothes.

Vice Principal F. Wright Carlson said the suspension would be noted on each boy's school record which will follow him to high school. Carlson said he had warned the whole eighth grade class in commencement exercise practice Thursday not to wear inappropriate clothing on the last day of school "or any other time."

He said the boys wore old torn tee shirts, ripped off trousers and other sloppy attire. If they had on "nice clean Bermuda shorts it would have been a different story," added Carlson.

One of the students, Larry Lynn of 128 Vista Drive said he did not think the suspension was fair.

"The girls have worn their skirts shorter all year than our shorts were the last day of school . . . and it was a hot day, too," declared Lynn.

Carlson maintained that it was not the length of the shorts that was inappropriate, but the condition of the clothing.

College Group Plans To Give Recommendations

The College of Marin's 20-member citizens advisory committee, organized last January, will summarize its activities and make recommendations to the college trustees at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the art building.

The committee, under chairman Louis Wasserman, and later, Rufus Rhoades, has studied present and future problems of the college.

It split into three subcommittees in April for specific study in these areas: the college and the community; future planning; students and their diverse activities.

The committee formally will cease to exist June 30. It is expected that members who want to continue to serve will be reappointed by the board for 1961, 1962.

Council To Meet On Sewer Bids

Belvedere City Council will hold an adjourned meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Belvedere Community Hall to receive bids for the sale of the sewer facility bonds, according to City Manager Britton Rey.

Also on the agenda is the amendment to the subdivision ordinance, and a report from the council sewage committee.

Linguist Decries Modern Southern Rebel Yell As Less Than Perfected

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Columbia University linguist said today he didn't want to start another Civil War, but the truth is that the "rebel yell" delivered by modern Southerners is but a pallid echo of the real thing.

Dr. Allen Walker Read said he had made an extensive study of contemporary descriptions of the terrifying battle cry used by Confederate troops and is now convinced it was a unique vocal sound heard only during the Civil War and not—accurately—since.

"I realize this is going to raise the ire of some Southerners who feel they have perfected the rebel yell," Read said in an interview. "But they should realize themselves that the Confederates developed their yell under the great emotional strain of battle. Today's imitations just aren't equal."

Actually, Read reported in an article in "American Speech," a linguistic quarterly, the rebel yell was not "conventionalized into the pattern of the English sound system."

He admitted that "attempts to catch it (the yell sound) in any known spelling are all lamentable."

Read said he dug up the account of one Confederate Army private who said the rebel yell, which Read considers "the most terrifying of all war cries," sounded like "Yai, yai, yai, yi!"

But a Virginia Military Institute cadet who fought in the war was quoted as saying the yell was divided into three parts, the first syllable consisting of "wha," the second an accented "who," and the third a long drawn out "eeeeee!"

However the yell came out, it was credited with striking fear into the hearts of Union soldiers, Read said, sometimes causing the Yankees to break and run. He said the sound was a "terrible" one that "certainly helped to shape the picture of the Southern soldier as a furious fighter."

Read said the rebel yell had multiple uses. "Its chief function was to raise morale," he said, "but it could also be used both for cheering and mocking famous men."

Confederate troops used the yell to jeer a statue of Benjamin Franklin on top of the Chambersburg, Pa., courthouse, but during a meeting in Atlanta, Jefferson Davis was greeted by the yell as well as cheering.

The rebel yell was shouted by thousands of Confederate soldiers in at least 20 battles, Read said, but never was it used with more awesome effect than at the battle of Bull Run.

A Northern sergeant reported that a flank movement by Confederate troops through a pine forest at Bull Run was accompanied by the fearsome battle cry.

". . . We just thought the Rebels were rising up out of the ground," the sergeant said, "in those pines, everywhere, when we broke and ran, and never stopped until we crossed the long bridge into Washington City."

The rebel yell, "one of the pared to the more sedate "hip, South's unexpected secret weapons," was overpowering comhip huzza" of Union troops, Read said, and descendants of rebel soldiers have never been able to reproduce it.

Before they get angry with him for making such statements, Read said, "I'd like to point out that although I'm a 'damyankee' from Iowa, I happen to have had a grandfather who fought on the Confederate side."

Kennedy Enjoys Weekend Of Rest

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — President John F. Kennedy settled down today to a weekend in the country with his family, and more rest and treatment for his lame back.

The president and his wife arrived last night by helicopter at their rented Glen Ora estate. He will have at least one visitor today. Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician.

Stinson Beach Bicyclist Hurt

A 10-year-old Stinson Beach boy was in "potentially serious" condition today at Marin General Hospital with head injuries suffered in a fall from his bicycle.

Scott Kranzler son of A. G. Kranzler, apparently was riding down a steep hill off Calle del Mar in Stinson Beach. He fell from the bicycle as it rapidly gained speed and landed on rough ground.

The boy was taken, semi-conscious, to the hospital by United Ambulance.

Fairfax Boy Hurt

A 13-year-old Fairfax boy was taken to Marin General Hospital yesterday evening after he suffered a deep cut on his left hand when he accidentally pushed his hand through a glass door at his home.

He is Jack McBride, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McBride, 67 San Gabriel Drive.

The boy was released from the hospital today.

SESSION

ited broadening of unemployment insurance, modest gains in the disability insurance and workmen's compensation fields.

Republican criticism of the session was sparked by Herbert Klein, former press secretary to Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"The session was one of the worst in years," Klein said last night in a speech in San Diego. His particular target was Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh of Los Angeles, the man who hopes to succeed Assemblyman Ralph M. Brown (D-Modesto), as speaker.

"Big Daddy Unruh is the most powerful man in state government since (liquor lobbyist) Artie Samish and controls more votes and more people than anyone in years," Klein said.

Governor Brown, in a midnight appearance just before the two houses adjourned, praised the work of the legislature.

"I commend you on one of the most productive and forward-looking sessions in the past half century," Brown said.

It enacted a school aid bill calling for the expenditure of 721 million dollars in the next fiscal year; passed a constitutional amendment proposing a 100-million-dollar bond issue to build low-rent housing units for the aged; boosted building aid for junior colleges by five million dollars and rejiggered aid to jaycees so that poorer districts picked up 2.5 million dollars in aid from richer areas.

The final day saw both houses agree to write into state statutes on obscenity a recent Supreme Court decision. It voted to stress solid subjects such as arithmetic, reading and spelling in elementary schools and require teaching a foreign language in the sixth grade.

In the dying hours of the session, the Senate revived a bill backed by the governor to permit the Highway Patrol to use radar devices to catch speeders —then, summarily killed the proposal.

Unless the governor calls a special session, the legislature will not meet again until early 1962.

SHIPPING

that the American Merchant Marine Institute might ask President John F. Kennedy to bring the Taft-Hartley Act to bear with an 80-day injunction so that shipping would be resumed while negotiations continue.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, here since Thursday under direct orders of the president, withdrew last night from active participation in mediating the nation-wide strike after urging the parties to resume negotiations.

Goldberg made his request shortly after Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, predicted that there will be an important "break" soon toward settling the walkout.

One negotiating session-between the American Merchant Institute and the National Maritime Union—was set for today.

Goldberg described the maritime industry as "an important, vital" one and said "the nation can ill afford a shutdown of this kind."

Only six ships were tied up in New York Friday.

In San Francisco pickets appeared today on the waterfront for the first time since the maritime strike began on the east coast yesterday.

They picketed the Horace Luckenbach after the freighter unloaded Army cargo at Oakland Friday, was shifted across the bay to Pier 38, and her crew discharged.

Union officials had said any ships would be picketed if crews were discharged.

Teamsters and longshoremen respected the seamen's picket lines.

A spokesman for shipowners was unable to say whether discharge of crews by incoming ships would be a general policy.

REFERENDUM

but the county will not be known until next week.

The petition protests the abolition of the administrator office and orders the supervisors to reconsider their action or to submit the matter to the voters of the county.

All signatures must be matched to their precinct number on the rolls of the county clerk, and this work has already started, Finisy said. It must be completed in time for ratification of the petitions and their submission to the supervisors by Thursday.

Finisy has appealed to all persons circulating the 600 petitions to return them to their area chairman Monday.

Area chairmen, headed by Mrs. Hugh Rodman of Mill Valley, are: Novato, Mrs. Marett Boissevain; San Rafael, Mrs. Melvin Marlowe; Tiburon peninsula, Mrs. James Oliver; Sausalito, George Hoffman; Ross Valley, Mrs. Frederic Cowden; Fairfax, Finisy, and Western Marin, Gibbs Lawson of Dillon Beach.

Supporting the MCCA in the referendum petition are the Leagues of Women Voters of Mill Valley and Central Marin; the Marin County Farm Bureau, the Mill Valley branch of the American Assn. of University Women and the Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs.

Ward Austin, Wife Leave Today On Trip To Alaska

College of Marin retiring President Ward H. Austin and his wife Miriam are leaving at 4 p.m. today for an extended tour of Alaska.

His schedule will take him north through Vancouver, Canada. He will then go up the Alcan Highway to Fairbanks. He will stay in Fairbanks, using that as a base to fly over northern Alaska. He plans on returning in September.

A native of Kansas, Austin graduated from Covina High School and took his bachelors degree from the University of California in Berkeley in 1925. His education was interrupted by World War I when he served as a mechanic for the Army Air Corps. He worked for two years as a laboratory assistant at the University of California.

He came to Marin Junior College in 1927 to organize the engineering department. At that time the college had only three classrooms and one office.

In 1935 he was named vice president. He served until 1939 when he became head of the Lux and Wilmarding School in San Francisco. In 1942 he returned to the College of Marin as vice president, succeeding A. C. Olney.

He has served the college 31 years, eight as an instructor, five as a teaching vice president and 18 as president.

Always active in civic affairs, he was named outstanding citizen of 1961 by the Marin County Real Estate Board. The college has changed the name of the science building to Ward H. Austin Hall.

He was honored at the founders day program this year and at the final assembly. The associated student body created an annual $25 book scholarship in his name.

His sons and friends will keep up his home in Larkspur until he returns in September.

Hanlon P. Tharp, principal of the Quincy Junior-Senior High School in Plumas County for the past six years, will be named principal of San Rafael's Davidson School Tuesday night.

The Board of Education is scheduled to appoint Tharp during an adjourned meeting at 7:30 called mainly for budget discussions.

Tharp will replace Homer E. Hoyt, who takes over a new position July 1 as director of education in the San Luis Obispo County superintendent's office.

The 40-year-old Tharp was principal of the elementary school in Quincy for three years, and also was a teacher in the Plumas Unified School District and in Oroville, Butte County.

Tharp was a Navy flier during World War II, and before that did recreation work for the city of Sacramento.

He has a bachelor's degree in education from the University of California, and a master's in education from Stanford University.

Tharp is not married.

Grass Blaze Under Control

The dry, thick grass in marshland east of Highway 101 near the Corte Madera Wye flared up this morning and was still burning at noon today — but under control.

The fire was being allowed to burn itself out in about a 500-foot square area by the Corte Madera Fire Department. Firefighters had the blaze under control several minutes after it ignited, shortly after 10 a.m.

It started from an undetermined cause about 1,000 yards out from the nearest road. Firemen had to fight it with water from tanks strapped to their backs, and with shovels. They were assisted by several men from the Larkspur Fire Department who also brought extra equipment.

Canadian Dollar Dips In Value

NEW YORK (AP) — The Canadian dollar closed here last night at par with the U. S. dollar, the lowest point it has reached in more than five years.

In Montreal, however, the Canadian dollar closed at one dollar and 1/32 of a cent in U. S. funds. The decline in New York was accelerated with an announcement yesterday by Canadian Finance Minister Donald Fleming of a $345,500,000 deficit for the fiscal year ended March 31.

Firemen Gain Control Of Southlands Blaze

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Firemen today gained control over a big fire in San Gabriel Canyon.

The blaze was contained in a 1,600-acre section of brushland above Morris Dam. Firemen say increasing humidity and decreasing temperatures are aiding them.

IN MEMORIAM

In devoted memory of my father on Father's Day.
Deep in my heart you are fondly remembered.
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name,
The heart that loved you with deepest affection,
Always will love you in death the same.
Know you are not forgotten, dad, nor ever shall you be,
Your name is offered to God in prayer
Not just today but constantly.

Giant Pitching Rotation Upset As Jones, Loes Flop

OH, WHAT PRESSURE! — Who says golf isn't a pressure game? Contortions and facial expressions by these golfers tell the story of the joy and heartaches on each green during big tournaments. In yesterday's second round of the National Open Bob Goalby (left) throws up his arms and drops his putter as ball rolls into the cup for a 25-foot birdie on 16th hole. In center photo, Doug Sanders stands off balance with his mouth open as he followed 10-foot putt and saw it drop in on the 18th hole to tie him for leadership with Bob Rosburg. And at right, James F. Curti Jr. makes with the contortions as he watched a long putt just miss on the 17th hole. (AP Wirephoto)

O'Dell Called On To Plug Gap In Starting Corps

Manager Alvin Dark's pitching rotation for the San Francisco Giants is in for some overhauling as he shuffles the hurling array to shore up weak spots.

Left-hander Billy O'Dell, used chiefly in relief, may move into the starting role regularly since Sam Jones and Billy Loes have been failing lately.

Dark named O'Dell to face the Chicago Cubs and Jack Curtis today in a battle of left-handers after the Giants took a 12-6 shelling last night in the opener of a three-game series. That left them in third place, one game behind Cincinnati and one-half back of Los Angeles.

O'Dell turned in 5⅔ innings of great relief hurling and grabbed the victory over Los Angeles last Monday for his second triumph of the campaign. He's appeared in 21 games, only twice as the starter, winning one of those and losing the other.

The Cubs' Billy Williams crashed a grand slam homer off an ineffective Loes last night in the third inning to give the Chicagoans the impetus they needed. Jones came on in relief the next inning and promptly gave up three singles.

Jim Duffalo followed and was hit for a pair of singles and a double as the Cubs scored five times in that frame to wrap up the victory—their second over San Francisco in 10 tries.

The two-run double was hit by ex-Giant Andre Rodgers who also figured in a pair of double plays against his former mates.

The Giants collected 12 hits, the same as Chicago, and had three homers but all of them were solo. Felipe Alou hit one in the first, pinch hitter Jim Marshall another in the third and relief pitcher Jack Sanford the finale in the eighth.

In addition to Williams' grand slammer, George Altman belted a two-run homer in the ninth. Ernie Banks, playing first base for the first time in his major league career, had singled before Altman's clout.

Sanford must work his way back onto the starting rotation. Big Jack has been troubled by a sore heel and hasn't been able to work out sufficiently.

Originally, Dark had Mike McCormick, Juan Marichal, Sanford, Jones and Loes as his starters. Now only McCormick and Marichal are the ones without question.

TENSE U. S. OPEN FINALE

Rosburg, Sanders Sitting Ducks For Final 2 Rounds

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—A tense field of 57 awaited the "moment of truth" in today's double-round windup of the 61st U.S. Open golf championship after a royal head rolling yesterday.

The two-stroke halfway leaders at one-under-par 139, Bob Rosburg and Doug Sanders, generally were regarded as sitting ducks in the battle for the game's top title and a $14,000 winner's swag.

Friday's second-round produced a brisk pummeling of Oakland Hills' 6-907-yard, par 35-35—70 course. The big question was whether defending champion Arnold Palmer — 10 strokes off the pace — could match his come-from-behind victory strike last year.

But two sentimental favorites—four-time winner Ben Hogan and Sam Snead — were threats at 143, four strokes behind.

Palmer, at Denver's Cherry Hills last year, was eight strokes behind the 54-hole leader, Mike Souchak, entering the final round. Palmer came up with a rousing 65 to win with 280, second low in Open history.

Palmer now has 46 players ahead of him, including six tied for third at 141, two strokes off the pace. The sextet includes Doug Ford, Eric Monti, Bobby Brue, Gardner Dickinson, Al Geiberger, and Gene Littler.

Palmer made the exact halfway cutoff point with 74-75-149.

Biting the dust beyond the cut-off mark yesterday were former Open champions Ed Furgol (1954), Julous Boros (1952), Cary Middlecoff (1949), and Lew Worsham (1947). Four-time British Open champ, Peter Thomson of Australia, also was a casualty at 153.

The year's leading PGA money-winner, Gary Player of South Africa, also was in with 147.

Sanders, nursing a lame lower back, explained how he used a 2-wood as a driver for his second round 67. He used his regular driver only on the 8th hole.

Sanders hurt his lower spine Sunday night when, as he tried to get seated in a canoe, someone moved the boat. He had a shot of novocaine for Thursday's opening round in which he scored a 72.

Only three strokes off the pace at 142 were two Australians, Bruce Crampton and Kel Nagle, and American pros Bob Harris and Bob Goalby.

The top amateur after 36 holes was husky Jack Nicklaus, whose 69 moved him into position to make the same final bid he did last year in finishing runnerup to Palmer.

College Stars Join Tiburon '9' Tomorrow

Two college stars will join the Tiburon Pelicans' roster tomorrow as the unbeaten southern Marin club shoots for its fifth victory of the season in one of three semi-pro baseball features scheduled in the county.

Elsewhere the Mill Valley Merchants entertain the San Francisco Fire Department nine at Mill Valley's Project 17 Park and the San Anselmo Ongaro Plumbers battle the E. Bercovich and Sons team of Oakland at Memorial Park, San Anselmo.

Tiburon, which takes on the Vallejo Builders at Tiburon's Judge Field at 2:30 p.m., will welcome the services of outfielder Ken Anderson and second sacker Jim Barbeau, just out of college, Anderson from Cal Poly and Barbeau from USF.

KING TO HURL

Manager Eddie Vigno plans to start righthander Tom King on the mound.

Over at Mill Valley, at 1:30, Merchant Manager Bob Selna will call on unbeaten righthander Tom Leps to oppose the Firemen. Leps has won both of his starts this season.

San Anselmo Manager Hal Clifford probably will start Ron Cole on the hill against the Oakland team. That game also is scheduled for 1:30.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Burdette Continues Mastery Over Dodgers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

If fidgety Lew Burdette makes other clubs nervous and suspicious that he throws a spitter, it's nothing to what he does to Los Angeles. Lanky Lew gives the Dodgers a fit, and in their own ball yard, to boot.

The big right-hander, as tough with his bat as he is with his low-and-away stuff, knocked the Dodgers out of the National League lead with a home run and a five-hit pitching job that brought the Milwaukee Braves a 2-1 victory last night.

It was Burdette's ninth straight victory at the Coliseum, and he's the only pitcher who has beaten the Dodgers twice there this season with complete game decisions. It also was his 10th career home run in the majors and his sixth against the Dodgers—all over the left field screen at the Coliseum.

REDS TAKE LEAD

Cincinnati moved into first place by a half game over Los Angeles with a 4-1 victory at Philadelphia. The San Francisco Giants slipped a game behind, in third place, after a 12-6 pasting by the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 5-2.

In the American League, Lew Krausse, a $125,000 bonus right-hander, pitched a three-hit shutout for Kansas City in his first pro game, beating the Los Angeles Angels 4-0. Detroit dropped New York out of the lead, by defeating the Yankees 4-2, and regained a first place tie with Cleveland. The Indians defeated Baltimore 3-1. Boston beat Washington 14-9, and Minnesota won 6-1 at Chicago, ending the White Sox' winning streak at seven games.

Burdette (5-5) walked one and struck out five, blanking the Dodgers on four hits until Charlie Neal homered in the seventh inning. The Braves, four games below .500 in sixth place, collected eight hits and beat southpaw Sandy Koufax (9-3) with a deciding run in the seventh on four walks ,the last by reliever Larry Sherry. Burdette's homer came in the fifth off Koufax, who had won six in a row since May 16—when he lost to Milwaukee 5-3.

The Reds broke loose for all four runs in the eighth off loser Johnny Buzhardt (2-7) and relievers Ken Lehman and Frank Sullivan. Consecutive singles by Gordie Coleman, Gene Freese and Wally Post brought in the first run, for a 1-1 tie, and pinch-hitter Jerry Lynch then broke it up with a double off Lehman. Ken Hunt (7-3) was the winner, pairing with reliever Jim Brosnan for a three-hitter.

Little Beavers Win Loop Title

Little Beavers won the first half championship of the Gallinas Valley Little League earlier this week by downing Locke Brothers 8-3 in a playoff battle.

The two ended in a tie for the title, necessitating the playoff. First half standings:

	W	L
Beavers	9	2
Locke's	8	3
Stompers	6	3
Green Hornets	3	6
Odd Fellows	3	7
Spartans	1	9

In the minor league the Crew Cuts won the title with an undefeated record in eight games.

Boccabella Makes Great Debut In Canadian League

John Boccabella of San Anselmo made an auspicious debut in the Western Canada Semi - Professional Baseball League this week with the Saskatoon club.

In a double-header, Boccabella sent the first pitch offered him for a 420-foot home run over the centerfield fence. He added a triple, two doubles and two singles during the remainder of the two games to collect six hits in ten at-bats.

Boccabella, a junior at University of Santa Clara, and other college stars are working in Canada during the summer and at the same time gaining baseball experience in the high level semi-pro league.

John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Boccabella of 317 Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo.

L.A. Pays $108,000 Bonus To Prep Star

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Roy Gleason, an 18-year-old California high school baseball star, was signed with the Los Angeles Dodgers last night for a bonus in the neighborhood of $108,000. He is a pitcher-outfielder.

Max Lanier's Son Signs With S.F. For Fat Bonus

The San Francisco Giants have signed Harold Lanier, son of former pitching star Max Lanier, for a "very substantial sum."

Lanier, 18, was assigned to Quincy, Ill., of the Midwest League. Jack Schwarz, secretary of the Giants' farm organization, said Lanier will be tried as a shortstop for the time being. The youngster, whose father won 108 games in the National League, also is a pitcher.

Schwarz declined to disclose terms of the contract, but said it was the highest ever paid to a player from Florida. "We'll say it's a very substantial sum and let it go at that," Schwarz said. "There have been too many stories already about the big bonuses being paid."

Englishman Captures British Amateur Golf

TURNBERRY, Scotland (UPI) — Mike Bonallack, 26-year-old British Walker Cupper, won the British Amateur Golf Championship today by beating Jimmy Walker of Scotland, 6 and 4, in the 36-hole final round.

Meadow Club Final Today

Meadow Club's Gold Putter-Silver Spoon Invitational Golf Tournament headed down the home stretch this afternoon with the team of George Kerrigan and Lloyd Rossi nursing a one-stroke lead after the first half of the 36-hole event.

The Kerrigan-Rossi tandem toured the Fairfax links in a best ball card of 65 strokes for low gross honors yesterday. One stroke back at 66 were San Rafael restaurateur Reno Ghilotti and Jim Fahrner along with John Woodson-George Archer. Two strokes off the pace were Chet Patterson-Dr. Bob Knutson.

In low net scoring the team of George Steinert-Dr. D. G. Schmidt set the early pace at 55, followed by a three-way tie for second at 57 between Ghilotti-Fahrner, Gordon Wood-Fred Neal and Robert Nelson-James Conley.

One golfer shot a hole in one, but accepted it with mixed emotions. He was Jay Parker of the Almaden Golf Club who aced the 150-yard eighth hole with a five iron. Had he aced the No. 5 hole, he would have picked up a $1,000 cash prize in a special hole-in-one contest.

San Rafael Team Needs Sponsors

Newly-organized San Rafael Merchants semi-professional baseball team is badly in need of that green stuff you ask for by name — M-O-N-E-Y.

San Rafael Chamber of Commerce yesterday said it is seeking 15 local merchants, organizations or individuals to contribute $35 each to the support of the new ball club which plans to enter the California Semi-Pro Tournament in San Rafael starting June 30. In exchange, the donor will have his name displayed on the back of a uniform for the rest of the season.

Chamber Manager Paul Richards said his office will gladly accept contributions.

Middleweights In TV Tiff Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Dulio Nunez, a 24-year-old Puerto Rican middleweight, tonight gets his reward for always being available. Because Nunez stepped in as a sub at St. Nicholas Arena on two occasions and won both fights, he is getting a main event at Madison Square Garden with Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., as his opponent.

Nunez has a 20-3 record and Moyer 29-4.

Moyer campaigned as a welter for some time but, after a defeat by Jorge Fernandez in April, decided he could not be strong even as a 155-pounder, eight over the welter limit. For his last bout, a KO after Willie Jennings, he weighed 164.

The 10-round match, scheduled for 7 p.m. (PDT) will be carried on network (ABC) TV.

Seminary Man Writes Book

Dr. D. W. Deere of Greenbrae, professor of Old Testament Interpretation at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley, has signed a contract with Westminster Press in Philadelphia for a commentary to be released late in 1962 on the Old Testament book, Ezekiel.

Author of the work to be called "The Prophet Ezekiel—Watchman of Israel," Dr. Deere has written another commentary, "The Twelve Speak, Volume II," to be released this fall by American Press.

Dr. Clifford Drury Will Serve Interim

Dr. Clifford Drury of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will serve as interim pastor at the San Geronimo Valley Community Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Drury is a professor of church history at the seminary and a Chaplain (Capt.) in the Navy Reserve. Former Pastor John Charles Bonner left the San Geronimo Church in April for a call to the Presbyterian Church in Lakewood.

Unitarian Church Has Changed Its Name

The Unitarian Church of Marin—due to a recent church merger nationally—has changed its name to the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin.

Rev. Samuel A. Wright Jr., pastor, announced that no Sunday worship services will be held the rest of this months, July and August.

Regular Schedule

The Mill Valley Community Church this week mistakenly announced that its worship service tomorrow and June 25 would be held at 10 a.m. A church spokesman said that for the next two Sundays the church will continue its regular 11 a.m. schedule.

You Can't Overcome Small Boy's Fear Of Darkness By Forcing Issue

(Q) "Our son is 5. Several weeks ago he was frightened by a dog which jumped on him in the dark. Now he can't go to sleep without a light in his room. Last night my husband insisted on his sleeping without it. The boy screamed until midnight. Then we gave in. How can we break him of his fear of the dark?" J. D.

(A) You can't do it by forcing the issue. Your attempt was a mistake. Let him have his light. Say nothing about it for at least a year. Then ask him to set a date after which he will try to do without it. When that time comes help him. Stay in the room with him until he drops off, for a night or two. Be sure to praise his success. Remember, the initiative has to come from him.

(Q) "We are adopting my nephew and niece from East Germany. The boy is 9, the girl 7. They are bright and capable, but shy. We want them to have friends and avoid delinquency. They are afraid to join school clubs. Where can they find good social life?" M. M.

(A) Probably this can best be found at church. Check the available ones of your denomination. Pick the one with the best program for children and youth. Start the children in the appropriate groups; after a time they'll feel at home. All parents should try to raise their children to take active parts in the youth programs of good good churches.

(Q) "What is the best test of a boy's intelligence? My son is 6. He failed first grade. The teacher says he is mentally retarded, but I don't believe her. I want him tested."

(A) Have a psychologist give him a "Stanford Binet" test. It is the best one for children of his age. You'll find psychologists on the faculty of any recognized college.

San Rafael Pool Schedule Revised

A revised schedule for swimming at the San Rafael High School pool has been announced by the San Rafael recreation and park department.

The pool, starting today, will be open Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 6 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday from 1 to 8 p.m.

On family nights, Tuesdays and Thursdays, the entire family may swim free between 6 and 8.

The Terra Linda pool, slated to open today, will not be operated until further notice because of a dispute between builder and architect.

Cooling Theft

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Isaac Price stopped at a service station on his way to work when he noticed his temperature gauge going haywire.

The reason was apparent when the attendant lifted the hood. The radiator and hose had been stolen during the night.

Tranquilizers Worth Tested Through Rats

NEW YORK (UPI)—By shining a bright light into the eyes of pole-climbing rats two scientists have brought light to the scientific mystery of how the widely prescribed tranquilizing drug, phenothiazine, brings about its miracles of tranquility.

The question with this and other tranquilizers has always been whether they suppress a person's ability to have an emotional reaction or whether tranquility is brought about at the expense of a general depression of the nervous system.

Scientists know rats best, since they experiment with them endlessly in many ways, and scientists are convinced that if anything is certain to give a rat an emotional reaction it is to shine a bright light into its eyes.

Drs. Max Taeschler and Aurelio Cerletti made their rats into pole-climbers by making pole-climbing a "conditioned response." The floors of their cages were electric grids. The rats learned that when a whistle blew a shocking electric current would pass through the grids exactly five seconds later.

They also learned that in five seconds they could easily get up the poles with which the cages were provided and so avoid being shocked. When this "conditioning" has reached the point where a whistle sent all the rats scurrying up the poles the scientists began tranquilizing them.

Some rats were injected with thioridazine which is a tranquilizer derived from phenothiazine by altering the basic molecule. Other rats got perphenazine which also is derived from the same molecule but by a different set of alterations.

Then came the light-shining. Most of the rats with thioridazine in them went up the poles just as though they hadn't been tranquilized. If it is true that a bright light inevitably gives a rat an emotional reaction marked by confusion and stupor, the reaction was chemically supressed in these rats.

But less than half of the "conditioned" rats tranquilized with perphenazine got up the poles. Although no one has yet interviewed a rat, it seemed conclusive that they had been enough confused and stupified by emotion to forget the penalty for staying on the electric grids when the whistle sounded.

These and may other experiments are aimed at producing better and better chemical tranquilizers for people — drugs which produce tranquility without unduly suppressing emotional feeling and ability to perform.

RIGHT KIND OF WEATHER FOR IT

Ina Bauer whirls in the fashion that gained her the German free-skating championship three times. She appears in the Silver Jubilee of the Ice Follies now playing at Winterland in San Francisco. Of the 26 who began kindergarten together, 14 graduated together from Redwood High School this week.

Mrs. Carl Conradi of 110 Evergreen Drive, Kentfield, made this discovery while looking at a photograph taken when her daughter, Carlene, started kindergarten at Kentfield in 1949. Carlene was among the 260 students who graduated from Redwood Thursday.

Other Kentfield kindergarten classmates of hers who also graduated in the Redwood High School class of '61 are Dick Chambers, Paula Daly, Charlene Bland, Ann Herman, J. J. Rodrigo, Keith von Borstel, Dan Smith, Tom Galli, Marjean Fellman, Peter Stock, Richard Brear, Perry Wade and Ann Neville.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Father's Day Reminds Him He Has Big Job To Do

Father's Day is usually a day on which we praise the "head of the house," give him presents and tell him what a great guy he is.

But to a father, Father's Day is a real reminder that he has a job to do, a continuing job, a 365 day a year job. Sigmund Freud (it seems popular to quote this man) once said:

"I could not point to any need in childhood as strong as that for a father's protection."

How well father does his protection job often is the key to the future of his sons and daughters.

As a guideline for fathers, someone has written 10 Commandments For Fathers. We think they are worth repeating and noting that they are rules by which father must live so as to fulfill his most important mission:

By My Example—

1—I shall teach my child respect for his fellow man.

2—I shall teach him good sportsmanship in work and play.

3—I shall instill in him an appreciation of religion and the family, the backbone of society.

4—I shall strive for companionship and mutual understanding.

5—I shall impart to him a desire to love and honor his country and obey its laws.

6—I shall encourage him to apply himself to difficult tasks.

7—I shall teach him the importance of participation in community affairs and local government.

8—I shall teach him self reliance and help him develop an independent spirit.

9—I shall help him develop a sense of responsibility in planning for the future.

10—I shall, above all, prepare him for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship in a free society.

Being a father is no easy task, that's clear. So today we honor him for a year-round performance.

Happy Father's Day.

Those Athletic Blackberries

See them climbing the wall. There they are wrestling with each other. Look at that bunch jumping over the fence. The vigorous blackberry clan is downright athletic.

Try to chop them off or dig them out and they fight back with thorny tooth and claw. Each branch is armed with myriads of tiny icepicks capable of causing painful wounds. This bush ensnares its enemy's clothing and chews upon him as he tries to extricate himself.

Sturdy and muscular, the blackberry would certainly win the decathlon in Marin's plant Olympics. It has already won its struggle for survival in our county where it has many dedicated enemies.

Mr. Blackberry can be a rough, tough customer when he gets out of hand.

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BIG BRICKBAT to the Weather Man for his sudden change of temperature. Sure, we've been wondering if summer would never come, but ALL in ONE week?

A BOUQUET to Niels Schultz Sr. for 50 years of accomplishments as a builder, and also for the resolution passed by the State Assembly praising his half century in construction.

A BOUQUET to Bryan Youngclaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan L. Youngclaus of Novato, for graduating from Fresno State College in agriculture as the "outstanding male student" in the institution.

BRICKBATS to those who will be complaining about high taxes later on, but who don't show up for budget hearings of the county, cities of various districts in which they live. Budgets determine the amount of money to be spent; the money spent determines the taxes which need to be raised.

BOUQUETS to Robert Dennis Rood, son of Major and Mrs. Robert N. Rood of Hamilton Air Force Base, on his appointment to West Point, and to Charles B. Coleman III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Coleman Jr., on his appointment to the Air Force Academy.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

THERE'S ALWAYS HOPE

No less than Nikolai Lenin himself claimed that a small number of persons with their eyes open could have nipped Communism in the bud 44 years ago.

"If there had been in Petrograd in 1917," he said, "a group of only a few thousand men who knew what they wanted, we never could have come to power in Russia."

There is a beam of hope, however, even though the blindness of the people of Petrograd gave unwitting entrance to the Communist tide that has since engulfed millions over the earth.

It is simply this: If good people raise their sights and repel the temptation to snuggle back into their cozy little worlds, they can usually prevent disaster and even improve matters.

Small-minded people hurt themselves and everyone else. Think, pray and act in terms of the big problems of mankind and you may do far-reaching good. God expects no less.

"Lift up your eyes, and see the countries, for they are white already to harvest."

Khrushchev Doesn't Seem Impressed By Kennedy Warning On Berlin

WASHINGTON—In creating another Berlin crisis Nikita Khrushchev does not seem impressed by President Kennedy's warning against miscalculation.

Mr. K's apparent indifference to this warning must stem from one of two considerations: either he believes that the West does not have the will and resources to defend Berlin or he expects to get what he is after by a war of nerves.

The Soviet objective and the Soviet tactic are familiar.

THE OBJECTIVE is to get the Western powers out of West Berlin and thus make it more difficult to defend the city. Many times Mr. K has described Berlin as "a bone in my throat." He has never said exactly why it is a bone in his throat. The reason must be that West Berlin is, to him, too alluring and radiant a symbol of freedom to have 120 miles inside East German Communist territory.

Khrushchev's tactic is to threaten to make a treaty with himself, that is, with the East German puppet regime by which he claims that all Western rights in West Berlin would be cancelled.

IN THE NOTE handed Kennedy at Vienna, Mr. K is quite polite about it all. If we do not like what he suggests, he would be glad to entertain "constructive proposals" from us to accomplish the same thing. This is like the Soviet Union's suggesting that it take half of Alaska and, when we demur, replying: "Well, you suggest what part of Alaska you would like to give us; we want to be reasonable."

The United States is not going to abandon West Berlin to comfort Khrushchev and we are not going to risk the freedom of 2½ million West Berliners on the assurance of the Kremlin that West Berlin would be a free city of Western rights were liquidated.

We have often said that we can defend only those areas and those people who are prepared to defend themselves. West Berlin and West Germany are ready and willing to defend themselves. Dr. Konrad Adenauer and Mayor Willy Brandt, who are contesting for the chancellorship this fall, are as one on this issue.

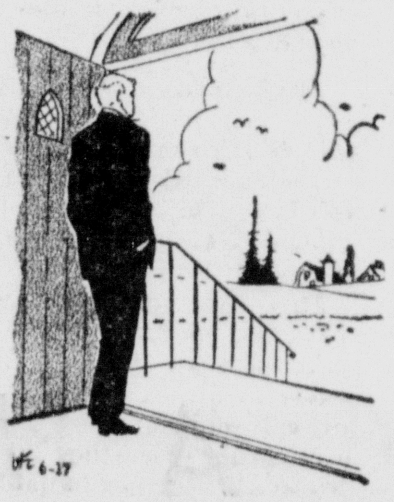

WOULD SOVIET acceptance of Berlin as a "free city" be trustworthy? Last year they accepted a neutral administrator to run the test-ban inspection machinery and this year they abandoned it to demand a Soviet veto. At the four-power summit in Geneva in 1955 they accepted free nationwide elections as the basis for German unification. They joined with the West in saying:

"The heads of government have agreed that the settlement of the German question and the re-unification of Germany by means of free elections shall be carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

IF THERE ARE to be any negotiations over Berlin, this is the point at which to begin and this is the point at which Khrushchev once pretended he was willing to begin.

I am sure that Mr. K has no more intention to go back to redeem his word on Germany than he has to go back to redeem the Soviet word on the test-ban directorship.

How 'Sinful Seven' Helped GOP Solons

By CHAPIN A. DAY

CHIP DAY

The legislature wound up in a rush, a bang (literally) and horseplay last night at midnight. It left behind much unfinished business, both happy and sad lobbyists, and a record of numerous political maneuverings.

Not the least of these involved Marin's freshman assemblyman, William T. Bagley, and the three other freshmen Republicans in the lower house.

It actually began shortly after the start of the session last January when Bagley, Gordon Cologne of Indio, Houston Flournoy of Claremont, and Robert T. Monagan of Tracy decided to have lunch together about once a week just to buoy up each other's spirits. They found they were compatible and had similar political outlooks, so they kept up the practice.

TALK EVENTUALLY came around to reapportionment. They knew that the top Republican leadership in the Assembly was attemptitng to negotiate with the majority Democrats. They knew also there were some (it later turned out to be 10) who were doing a little negotiating on their own and who probably would vote along with the Democrats.

What, asked the foursome, can we do to help the GOP cause?

They got out the maps as soon as the Democrats had revealed them. It appeared that two incumbent Republican assemblymen, Clark L. Bradley of San Jose and Chester E. Wolfrum of Los Angeles, could be aided if their district boundaries were moved slightly; aided, that is, bv making their district less Democratic in registration.

The districts the Democrats had carved out for Bradley and Wolfrum were both 60 per cent Democratic registration or slightly more.

THE FOUR freshmen decided to pool their strength, with Bradley and Wolfrum, to see if their six votes would help. Then along came Howard J. Thelin of Glendale.

The number seven had special significance. With the 10 Republicans already voting for the redistricting bill, seven more would make 17 voting with the Democrats; that a majority of the 33 Republicans in the lower house.

The seven checked out with the GOP Assembly leadership, John A. Busterud of San Francisco and Joseph C. Shell of Los Angeles. Then they decided they would hold out for not more than 56 per cent Democratic registration in the two districts.

THEY MADE THEIR proposal to Assemblyman Robert W. Crown (D-Alameda), reapportionment chairman, and Jesse M. Unruh (D-Los Angeles), Assembly bossman. Not much happened.

Then one day the four freshmen, or rather three of them because Monagan happened to be out of the Capitol, were summoned by Crown and Unruh. When they got to Crown's office, they found the 10 other Republican defectors there.

A compromise was offered; they'd make the districts about 57 per cent Democratic. Bradley and Wolfrum said this would satisfy them. The 10 Republicans then put the pressure on for acceptance. But the freshmen said they couldn't act without Monagan. They'd agree to stick together.

WHEN MONAGAN got back, the seven met and decided to reject the offer, to hold fast for 56 per cent.

When they conveyed this message back to Crown, he offered Bradley a 56.5 per cent district and Wolfrum a 56.2 per cent district.

The seven argued they wanted 56 per cent districts. But if the Democrats wouldn't lower Bradley's 56.5 per cent (Santa Clara Democratic leaders were howling), they'd have to lower Wolfrum's to 55.5 per cent.

And that's the way two districts were finally redistricted.

And that's why the final vote on the reapportionment bill was 63 to 17. One Democrat, W. Byron Rymford of Berkeley, voted against his party's bill.

AND THAT'S HOW the "terrible ten" and the "sinful seven" got together. But they aren't on the same basis, Bagley insists.

"The 10 would like to think they enlisted our support; they didn't. We're psychologically independent and have the blessing of our party."

He said he hopes the seven can act as the link between the two badly fractured parts of the party—the 10 and the remaining 16. Some harsh words have been exchanged and the party will need some mending after reapportionment.

"Maybe we can be the group to do it because nobody hates us too much," Bagley declared.

TOMORROW'S the day the Key Democratic Women of Northern California are hosting Marin's Treasurer of the United States Elizabeth Rudel Smith and California's first lady Mrs. Edmund G. Brown.

The champagne party is scheduled to start at 3 p.m. at the Roger Kent home in Kent Woodlands. Why they selected Father's Day for the affair is a long story and has to do with getting everyone together. But anyway, fathers are not only invited but urged to attend.

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER, mayor of San Francisco, has switched the tone of his speech Tuesday night before the Marin Young Republicans. His original topic had to do with the businessman in politics. Now his topic is "Action Today — Victory Tomorrow."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Tiburon Needs To Move Ahead

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

It is always difficult but vitally important when reading statements like those of "Citizens Committee Against Increased Taxation —" (i.e. incorporation of the Tiburon peninsula) to appreciate the motivations of the people who produce them.

I note a sizeable number of real estate people and at least one sewer district member. It is therefore ironical to receive tracts in the mail from this group who are trying to stab the taxpayer in his pocketbook under the guise of disturbing "facts" and "truth."

On second look and after some thought you might look through the hysterical and impassioned scare language and the questions which are self answered and not find a "fact" in sight. Conclusions are drawn regarding fire protection, police protection, road maintenance and insurance coverage which might have frightened me out of my wits at the age of 12. But fortunately I can see all too well the meaning of the growth of the future represented by the increasing pell mell traffic on 101 and what that population growth could mean in disorderly political planning and continuing reliance upon the "spit and whittle" courthouse government of past decades.

What the "Citizens Committee" seems to want is a written guarantee against risk and errors in incorporation. Where in our society does such a thing exist? In a cemetery.

The road to self government is not an easy one as can be seen around the world today. Yet sooner or later the step must be taken, in self interest, in self defense and at some cost and at some risk.

These risks can be reduced by the active interested and helpful hands of our own citizens. Let's move along. Let's move ahead. Have you heard of a growing community with rising property values unincorporating recently?

Fishing Pier For Kids Working Fine Except For Adult Poachers

That special fishing pier for kiddies at Elephant Rock in Tiburon is working out just fine.

But rumors are trickling northward that there's just one catch. Instead of small fry, the grownups are reported barging in on the pier to try their luck.

Thouble is, the best attorneys in town can't think of a single law that says a grownup can't use the pier.

Of course, you don't have to go broadcasting this fact to all your grownup fishing friends.

MOST EVERYONE knows you can't fish for bass with two poles at a time, and the limit is three fish to a person.

But did you know, for example, that it's illegal to fish for bass with a sinker weighing more than four pounds? A couple of anglers were hauled into court this week for doing just that. Boy, that was a new one on me!

THE STEEL-GRAY upswept hairdo on Stella Polz in the county clerk's office is striking enough.

But did you notice how well it blends in with her recently acquired deep sun-tan?

...FIRE CHIEF Nello Marcucci of San Anselmo is apparently all set on retiring in style.

He and his wife have taken out an interest in a nice lot at stylish Drake's Beach Estates, it says here in the county recorder's book.

BACK IN 1929, they must have made some sturdy fire hoses. The Fairfax Fire Dept. still has a two and one-half inch hose of 1929 vintage in use.

Chief Charles Thornton says it still passes the pressure test and has a few good squirts left before it retires.

CHIEF PROBATION Officer Walter Busher go an application the other day from a young man who wanted a job as probation officer. Busher thought the man looked vaguely familiar but couldn't place him.
place him. Then came the dawn!

Remember the fella who made sports headlines on June 6 when he ran the bases at Candlestick Park during the Giant-Phillies game? It was one and the same man.

His application didn't get to first base.

IF YOU NOTICED 12 jurors in the courthouse corridors the other day, whooping it up around cupcakes and candles, there was no cause for alarm.

It wasn't the long trial or the suddent heat that was to blame. They were merely celebrating the birthday anniversary of a fellow juror during a brief recess.

HUB CITY has an all-around man for its new planning commissioner.

You've no doubt heard of Geoffrey Fairfax, who lives on San Rafael Avenue in San Anselmo.

ONCE A newspaperman, always a newspaperman? Elizabeth R. Smith of Kentfield worked for the I-J some 12 years ago. Just the other day, we got mail addressed to: "Elizabeth R. Smith, food editor, Independent-Journal."

Decided we shouldn't forward it to her because as you know, Libby Smith is now quite busy as Treasurer of the United States.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

ONE FATHER'S VIEWS

Sometimes, you hear of the father:
That guy who has to pay
And pay, and gets no other thanks
Except on Father's Day.
He is painted as a martyr:
A man who's work and toiled
To pay the bills piled up by those Whose hands are seldom soiled.
They say he has little pleasure,
That all he does is work,
While others in his family
Fretfully sit and shirk.
Some say he gets no fun or trips,
Is never off a day,
That all he gets is lots of "mush"
On cards on Father's Day.

But I'm one guy who now declares
It's neither hard nor sad,
To be classed as a toiling father,
Or to be dubbed "poor Dad."
I'm proud of my place as father,
And of the niche I fill
As head of my house and "payer"
Of each account and bill.
I'm well repaid, and much, much more
For all that I have done:
The approval of my daughters,
The proud eyes of my son,
While my wife has a tender smile—
I've learned to know and see
That tells me of her perfect trust
And the love she has for me.

I wouldn't trade for cash or gold,
One moment in the scope
Of each baby's varied childhood,
Filled with love, pride, and hope,
And sprinkled with joys and sorrows,
That followed as they grew
From toddling babies to adults
In years that seemed so few.
Even that short, short span of life:
The child God took above—
Was filled with the sweetest blessings—
Remembered with great love.
So, all the year—not just one day—
For father, as they say—
I have lasting satisfaction:
Each day is FATHER'S DAY!

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By Bert Brown, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael, Bel Aire, & Fairfax, GL 4-4792

'Do You Have Any Clothing Care Tips For This Season?'

You probably are aware of most of the proper things to do with garments at this season. However, a reminder might not be out of place and could save you several dollars.

In spite of how clean a garment appears, it should be sterilized by drycleaning before storage or putting away for the summer. Moths silver fish, beetles and other hungry insects delight in chewing garments that are not absolutely clean. When you jam clothes into closets, even if they are clean, other garments against which they are stored may not be. The safest program is to have them cleaned and stored, either in a storage vault or in Box storage.

You'll be even safer if you have your drycleaner moth-proof your garments before storing them. This is especially true with wool fabrics. Moth-proofing preparations today are much more effective than these that have been used in previous years. Even then, moth-proofing is only half the protection you need. If you should store your garments at home, fumigate the closets in which you store them; remove gatherings of dust between cracks in floor boards. Moths breed there, too.

These simple precautions will preserve your cherished fabrics for a new season next Fall.

To Mill Valleyites, He's 'The Chief'

He Served His Town For Nearly A Quarter Century

By BRUCE COLEMAN

If there is one individual who knows a town's secrets, he is the chief of police.

He knows but he will never tell.

James Patrick McGowan, police chief of Mill Valley for almost a quarter century, retired May 1. This is the story, not of his secrets, but of "the chief."

THE CHIEF was once a boy in the Sierra Nevada. He played baseball and learned how to box and wrestle. He used to wait counter in a cigar store in San Francisco and go to school of an evening. He worked in an iron works.

The chief was a railroad man. Those were bright days when, he recalls, trains used to roll into Mill Valley on Sundays filled with people playing accordions, ukuleles and banjos.

"Everybody was singing and having a good time," the chief says.

"You had to hustle like a son-of-a-gun to collect all your tickets between here and Sausalito," he remembers. "You could, though, make it from Mill Valley to Sausalito and on by ferry from Sausalito to the San Francisco dock in 47 minutes."

McGowan, who will be 70 on Sept. 17, has sharp, clear eyes and is as sturdy as a rock, exercising 30 minutes daily, with barbells and other equipment.

"He's a hard boiled one," says Mrs. McGowan. "He never let anyone walk over him."

"You're either a man or a mouse in a police job," the chief said. "You can't be wishy washy."

The chief will tell you that he knew Baby Face Nelson when McGowan was town marshal in Sausalito. "Nelson's real name was Gillis," said the chief. "He had a wife and a little baby girl—a beautiful little girl. I used to talk to him. He was a little, timid sort of fellow."

McGowan says that both Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson hid out in Sausalito but "we had no knowledge of them being there until after they were exposed in the East."

McGOWAN points out that there were no murders in Mill Valley during his first 24 years as chief, and that he had hoped to be able to say there were none during his tenure. Then, almost within a month, there occurred two—one when Ralph C. Sooy shot his wife, Jean, and then killed himself on Dec. 28, 1960; the second on Jan. 21 when Luis S. Aldeguer stabbed to death James Roger Collins Jr.

Born in Milton in Calaveras County, McGowan moved to Grass Valley as a boy, then to Sacramento when he was 13 and later to Sonora where he attended high school.

In 1907 he lived in San Francisco where he waited counter in a cigar store and billiard parlor.

McGowen went to work in Tiburon as ticket collector for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He became a brakeman in 1911 and made his first run on a train between Tiburon and Willits. "It took five hours by passenger train and from 14 to 15 hours by freight."

Promoted to conductor in 1920, McGowan remained on his Willits run. He tells about having so many passengers aboard that people sat on the coach steps and the brake wheel. "We never lost anybody," says the chief. "Couldn't do that today."

ON SOME OF these trips, McGowan's wife, Mabel, accompanied him. McGowan tells the story of her kindliness when, one time, she was sitting next to a young man.

"I asked him for a ticket," says the chief, "and he replied 'I can't find my ticket'."

"I was used to that," McGowan adds.

"You look for it," McGowan told the man. "The next time I come around maybe you'll find it.

"If you don't have your ticket, I'm going to unload you."

"The next time I came through the train I said 'fares, please' and he passed me up a bill. I gave his a cash fare and thought no more about it. Later, sitting next to Mrs. McGowan, she told me she felt sorry for the guy.

"When we got into Sausalito Mrs. McGowan said she had given him the money for his fare. 'You gave him the money?' I asked. 'You'll never get that back! Kiss that goodbye! I'm working myself to death and you give my money away!"

"It wasn't a week later when he sent her a great big box of candy and, along with it, the money he had borrowed. 'I wish to thank you for helping me in the time of need,' a note read. It was signed 'wayward friend'."

In 1928, McGowan took leave of absence from the railroad and became town marshal of Sausalito. It was during prohibition, says the chief, "but there were no stills. It wasn't a bad town."

"In those days," he recalls, "we used to put on 50 policemen in Sausalito over a three-day holiday. We had to keep people in line who were coming back to Sausalito to catch the San Francisco ferry.

"I remember the worst time was when traffic was backed up to San Anselmo. People would really fight if somebody nosed them out. Every Sunday was a headache."

McGowan says the Golden Gate Ferry paid half the policemen's cost and Northwestern Pacific Railroad the other half.

Feb. 1, 1937, McGowan came to Mill Valley as chief of police. Besides himself, the force had three officers—Joe Canet, Howard Lascy and Jack Fiske. Of these, only Captain Canet is still with the department.

Today, there is the chief, Dan Terzich, and 10 officers.

WHEN McGOWAN first came, the chief earned $200 a month, the captain $165 and patrolmen $140.

Then the city had its own jail. "We used to give a man lodging if he had no place to go," said the chief. "There were two cells for men and one for women. When we got a woman, we called in a matron." Today there are no cells. Prisoners are taken directly to the county jail in San Rafael.

"We had more drunks in 1937 than now," McGowan said. "We would lock them up awhile and let them cool off."

The city in 1937 had its own judge who came in once a week. Walter W. Derr, who lives in Mill Valley, was Mill Valley's judge when the system was changed five years ago.

At that time McGowan acted as clerk of the court and remitted fine money to the fiscal department. McGowan says fines ran as high as $2,121 a month. They are now handled by municipal court in San Rafael.

"In 1937," the chief says, "we did everything. We even painted the streets." He added that "the center line we did with a little machine which held three gallons. The parking curbs we painted by hand."

One of the proudest possessions in the police station was his record book. "Everything is recorded," he says. "Records are a big thing in a police department."

He showed us the compact book which listed names of persons arrested, charges, dates, arresting officers, accidents and disposition of cases. With it were field expenditure records and the monthly reports.

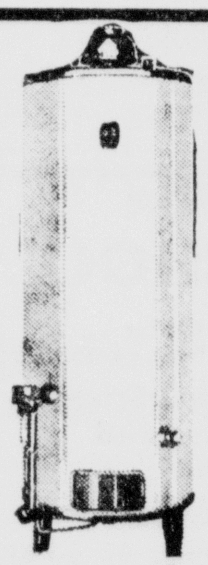

We noticed that during one month there were 16 records of animals impounded. The animals, loose on the streets,

IN THE DAYS of the swallow tail coat, back in 1922 and 1923, James P. McGowan was a conductor aboard the narrow gauge train which ran from Point Reyes to Cazadero. Mrs. McGowan sometimes packed a lunch and went along for the ride as she is preparing to do here. In addition to the swallow tail coat, conductor McGowan's uniform boasted brass buttons at the back.

were tied up, then turned over to the pound.

"We used to tie them up behind the city hall. Now we tie them up at the corporation yard and turn them over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals."

McGowan, who studied judo on his own years ago, is also a boxing fan, and boxed in different gymnasiums non-professionally.

His brother, Terry McGowan, was welterweight champion of the Navy. He was killed accidentally in 1929.

McGOWAN plans to take trips and work with his wife in taking care of their garden. Roses are his favorites in the front yard. Mrs. McGowan likes to paint, sew and garden.

McGowan raises vegetables in the backyard and, during the summer, he pumps water from the adjoining Corte Madera Creek to keep them watered.

The McGowans have raised two sons and one daughter in their white stucco house at 201 Miller Avenue.

The eldest, Mickey McGowan, is a butcher who works for Jolly Market in Mill Valley. He is known in the county as a folk dance teacher and teaches now at the Southern Marin Recreation Center. He is married and lives with his wife, June, in Belveron Gardens. They have two children, Patricia and Warren, both married, and living in Salt Lake City and Santa Barbara, respectively.

A daughter, Norine Banks, lives in San Carlos with her husband, Ed. and their two children, Nonie and Eddie.

A son, Jimmie McGowan, is to graduate from San Francisco State College in June where he is is majoring in physical education. He is a member of the Olympic Club where he wrestles, and has spent two years in the Marine Corps. He was a judo instructor and has had his black belt in judo for 17 years.

He is married to the former Eileen Sloan and lives in Tamalpais Valley.

The McGowans have five great grandchildren.

The chief has a number of working mottos which he has used during his years of law enforcing. "We handle everything. We back up from nothing," is one.

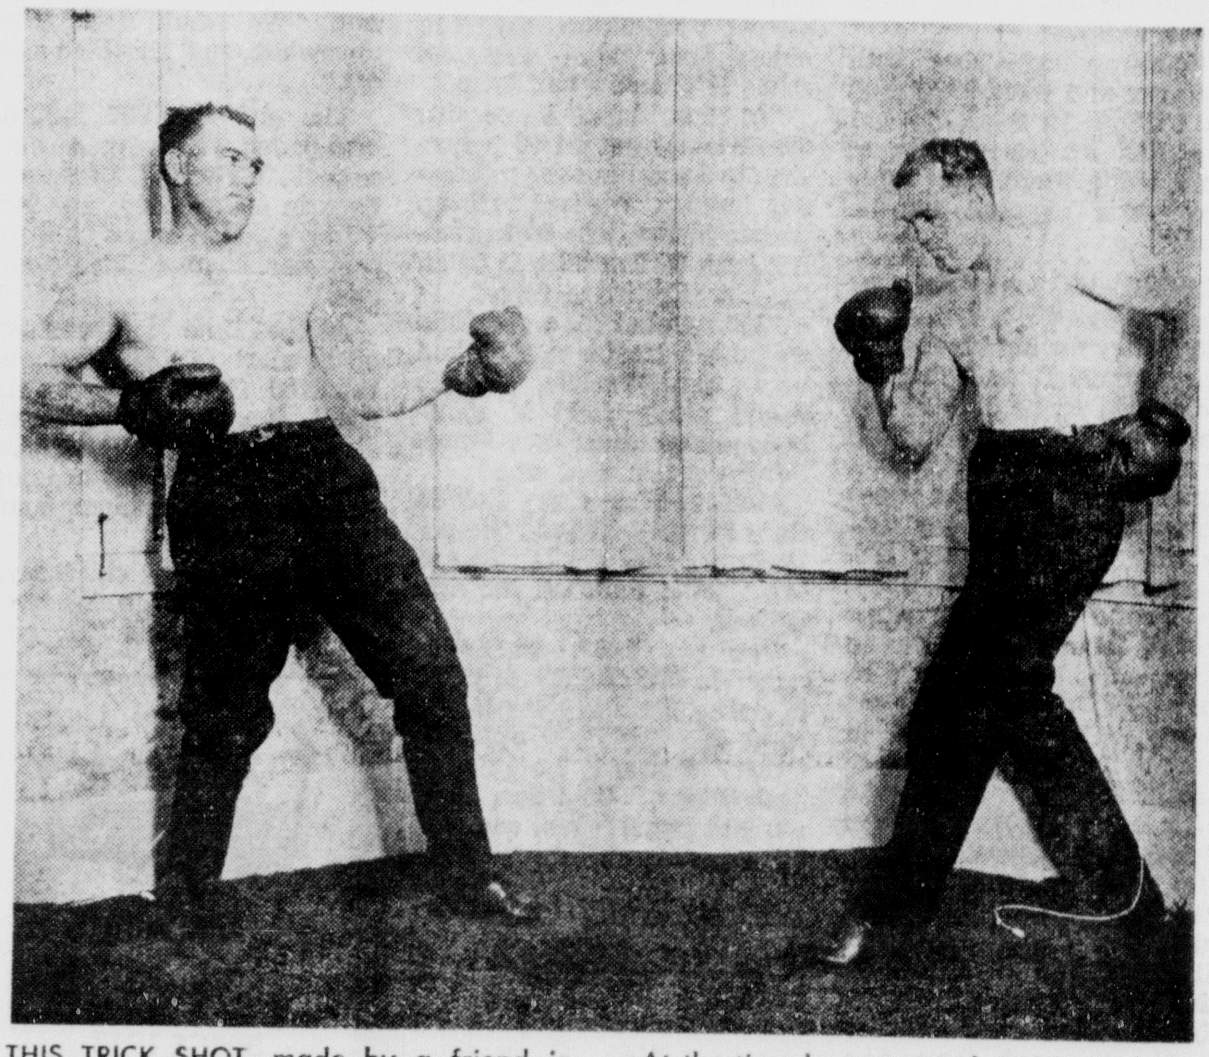

HE SAYS plainly: "I can look everybody in the eye. I never took a dishonest nickel."

Another is: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

"That," he says, "is the best saying of all."

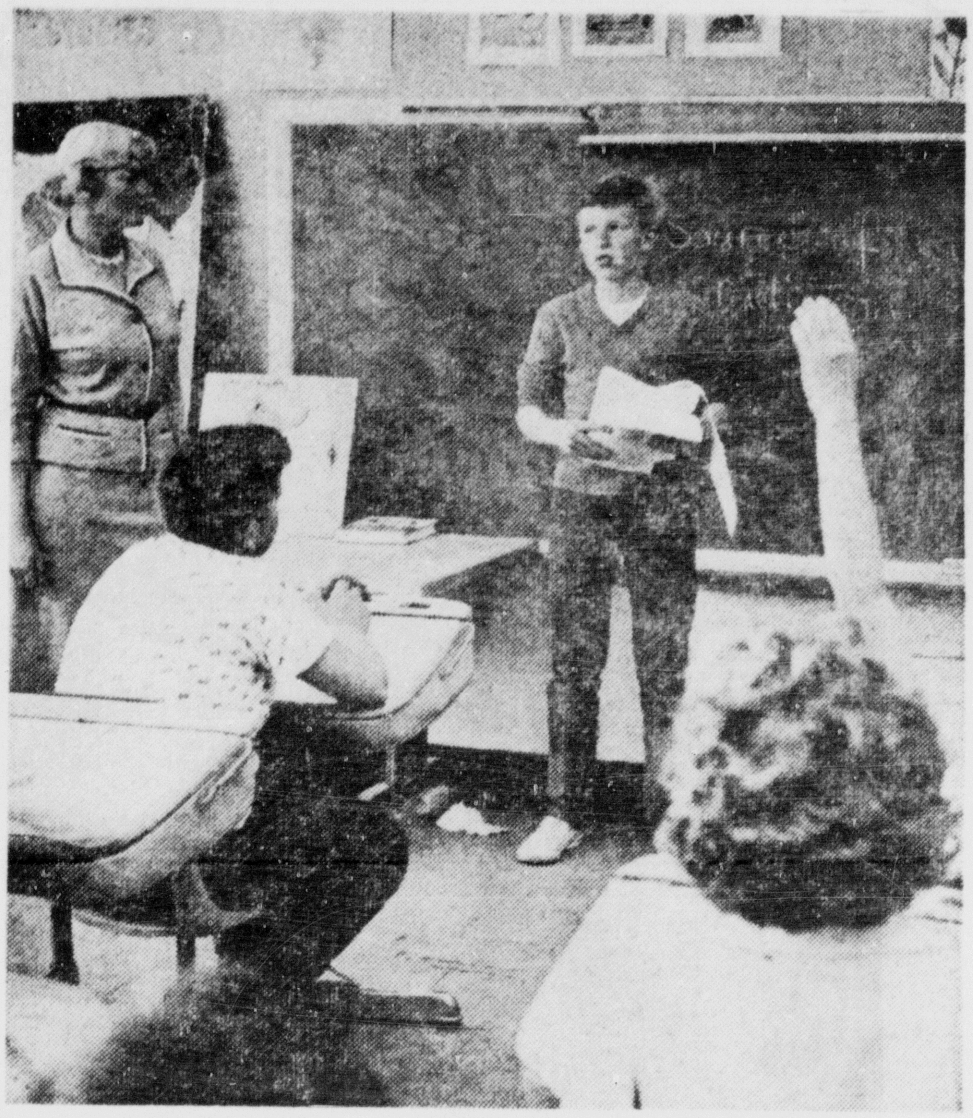

AS TOWN MARSHAL of Sausalito, James P. McGowan began his career in law enforcement in 1929. The uniform was khaki with a choker collar which McGowan recalls as "pretty hot in the summer."

THIS TRICK SHOT, made by a friend in Sausalito in 1923, apparently has boxer McGowan prepared to spar with himself. At the time he was employed by the railroad, McGowan engaged in non-professional boxing for the fun of it.

SIXTH GRADERS at Mill Valley's Alto School, including left to right, Alan Mainini, Paul Stewart and Scott Daulton, learned that television can be informative as well as entertaining. During the school year just completed their teacher, Mrs. Gwen Denk, assigned them as regular homework to watch KRON's Monday night "Science in Action" series.

EACH TUESDAY morning, Mrs. Denk's pupils discussed the "Science in Action" program which they had watched the previous night. The youngsters also corrected the work sheets which they had filled out from information taken from the TV show. Here Mark Walters is at the front of the room leading the discussion. Kids Like Homework, When It's On TV

Mill Valley Teacher Makes Use Of 'Science In Action' Shows

Every Monday night at 7 o'clock during the school year just completed the pupils of the sixth grade at Mill Valley's Alto School had a homework assignment which they tackled with unanimous enthusiasm—watching television.

Thirty-six young members of the class taught by Mrs. Gwen Denk watched KRON's "Science in Action" show weekly as a class assignment.

Home study work sheets were filled in with answers learned by watching the show.

Mrs. Denk says the assignments originated from her desire to take advantage of the pupils' natural desire to watch TV, and to encourage them to be selective in their viewing.

Because of the heightened interest in science resulting from the space age, she hit upon "Science in Action" as a classroom project. The California Academy of Sciences, producers of the program, furnished her each week an advance copy of the script for the forthcoming program. From this she prepared the work sheets which the pupils took home every Monday.

On Tuesday mornings a brief discussion period about the show were held and work sheets corrected.

Sometimes, Mrs. Denk admits, the shows were too advanced. On other occasions the pupils showed an interest which led to additional classroom projects.

During the year students made notebooks containing all of their worksheets plus special projects which struck their fancy. Among these was a special tidepool display prepared for Public School Week in April.

Mrs. Denk's experience in using "Science in Action" in her classroom is similar to that of a number of other Bay Area teachers who also have used the program. The Academy plans to publish a report of these projects and make it available to any teacher who wants to begin a similar undertaking in happy homework.

EXPERIENCED JOURNEYMEN at the H. Koch and Sons, Inc., luggage manufacturing plant in Corte Madera were always on hand to give the benefit of their experience to fellow employee apprentice Gale Mosier. Here Preston Thurman of Petaluma, left, a machine shop specialist, explains the intricacies of one phase of the plant operations to Mosier. (Independent-Journal photos)

Filling The Skilled Labor Gap

Apprenticeship Program Plays Vital Role In Supplying Craftsmen For Marin Industry

By DON KEOWN

Back in Omaha, Neb., Gale Mosier was an employee of the Union Pacific railroad, working in the machine shop.

Then he learned he would have to accept a transfer to deep into the Rocky Mountains if he wanted to remain with the railroad. Mosier didn't like the idea, so he quit his position. He worked his way from job to job and eventually wound up in the Bay Area.

It was from his father-in-law, Harry A. Scott of Tiburon, who had joined him on the West Coast and landed a job at H. Koch and Sons, Inc., in Corte Madera, that Mosier learned of an opening at the luggage manufacturing plant for an apprentice under the State Division of Apprenticeship Standards program.

MOSIER WAS doubtful that he could qualify. Nevertheless, he went to the Koch plant and talked with the superintendent and chief engineers. To his surprise, he learned that the requirements were not as difficult as he had assumed, and that he could qualify.

He left his current job, as a darkroom technician for a San Anselmo photographic studio, and began a new career as an apprentice tool and dye maker for Koch.

Mosier found that his previous experience in the railroad machinists' shop aided him in his new field. But there were, nevertheless, some marked differences — particularly in the much smaller machines employed in the luggage plant.

"And the cleanliness of the Koch plant is a big change from the railroad shop, too," he says.

Most apprentices do classroom as well as on-the-job work. For Mosier, however, his training has all been on-the-job. There is no classroom set-up for tool and dye makers in this area.

Mosier has compensated for the lack of classroom work, however, by doing considerable home study.

"I bought myself some books on mathematics and other subjects," Mosier says.

ON THE JOB, his immediate supervisor was Joe Tucker, Koch's shop superintendent. Other journeymen in the plant also went out of their way to help instruct the apprentice.

"I've learned a lot," Mosier says.

Next Saturday Mosier will be a member of a class of apprentices who will receive their certificates marking their promotion to journeyman status. And Mosier will then be a full fledged tool and dye maker.

The customary three years of apprenticeship were trimmed to two for Mosier because of his previous experience in Nebraska.

Mosier, a Vallejo resident who commutes to and from work and who is married and the father of three children, says he has now found the trade with which he expects to remain the rest of his life.

"I like the work," he says.

And although he could seek employment elsewhere, he is satisfied to remain at Koch. "It's a nice place to work," he explains.

Mosier is only one of many men in Marin whose employment horizons are being widened as a result of the apprenticeship program. It's a joint management-union-state project. Before Mosier began his work, the International Assn. of Machinists union and the Koch company signed an agreement with the state setting forth the terms in writing for his apprenticeship.

APPRENTICESHIP training in Marin under a county organization was given official status by the California State Department of Industrial Relations and the Division of Apprenticeship Standards on July 31, 1944.

Records show that since 1930 joint trade committees composed of representatives of labor, management and Marin County schools had worked to promote apprenticeship training and to improve pre-apprenticeship classes.

In 1938 the schools, assisted by the trade committees, were conducting pre-apprenticeship classes in auto shop, carpentry, electricity, sheet metal and landscaping. The desireability of closer coordination with management, and the need for a follow-up system after high graduation were apparent, however.

In 1939, joint labor-management apprenticeship committees were established for the automotive, carpentry, electrician, painting, plumbing and sheet metal trades, and evening classes were started in related subjects. Fred Wood was named by the schools to assist the committees in coordinating the program.

Pearl Harbor came, and apprenticeship training gave way to war work. In the conversion from regular apprenticeship training to training for war industries, the committees and schools of Marin assisted more than 4,000 people in getting into the national defense effort.

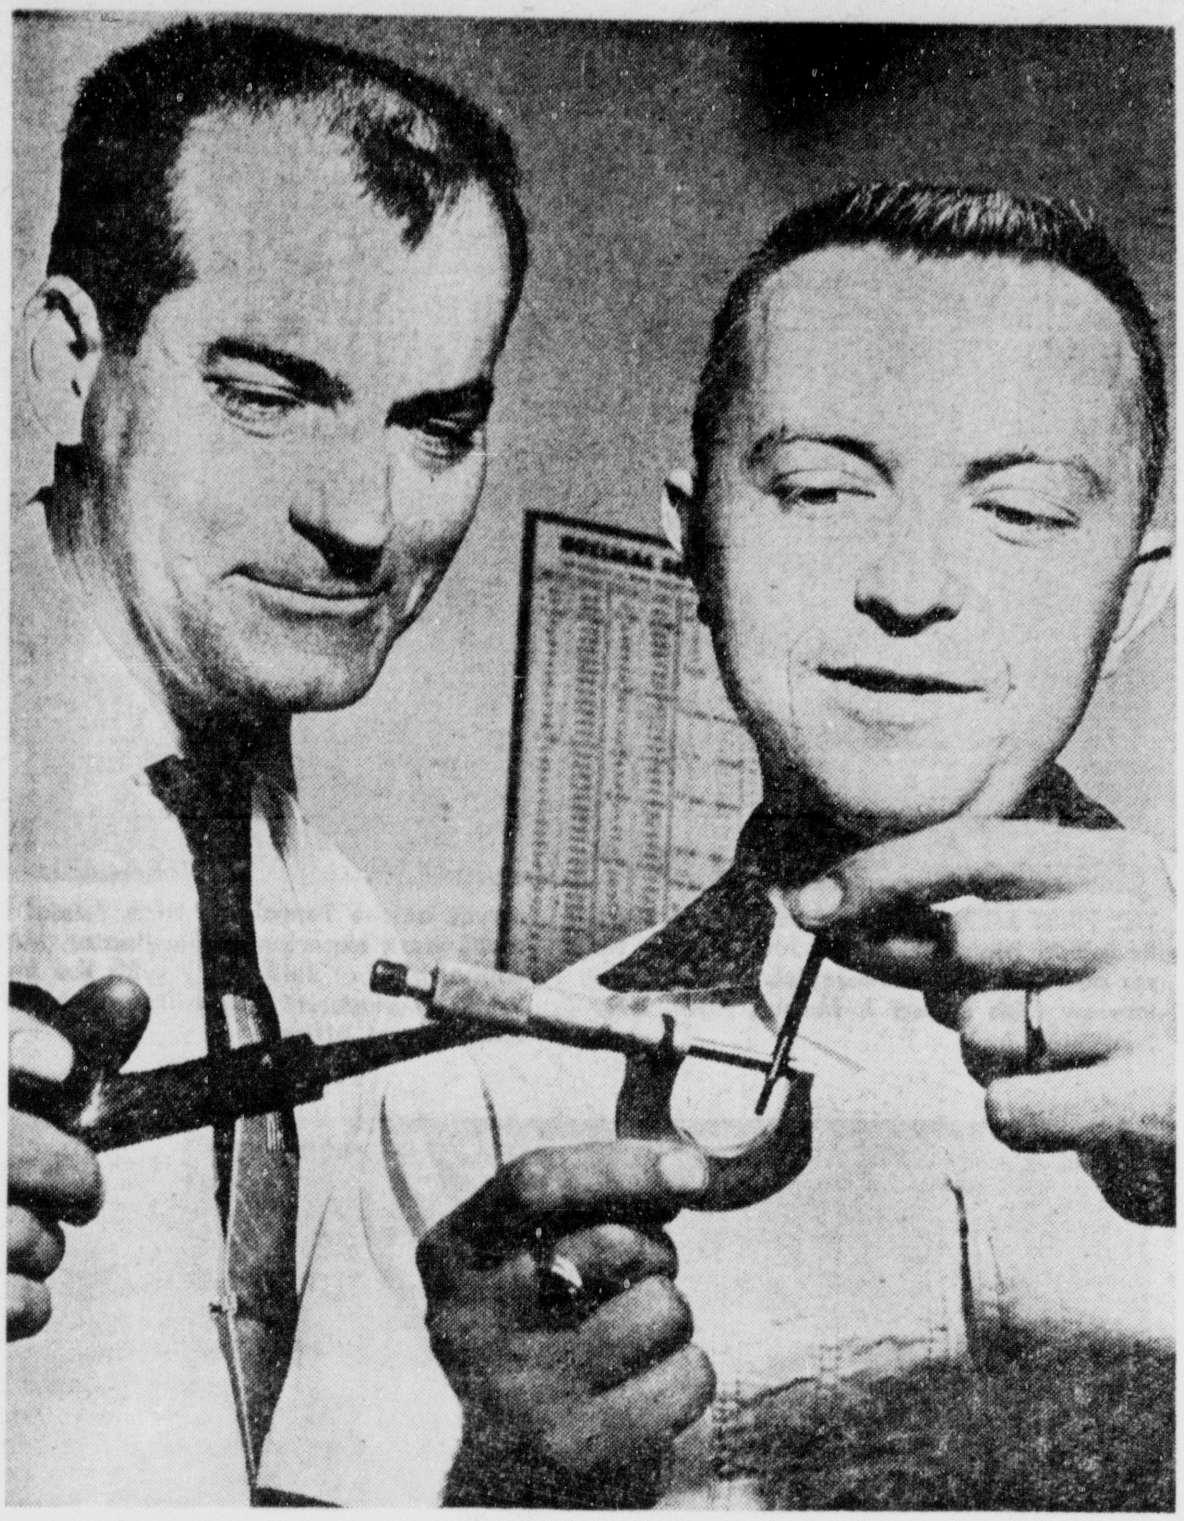

Near the end of the war, Archie J. Mooney, then chief of the apprenticeship standards division and secretary of the apprenticeship council, drew the attention of labor and management to the danger of a large postwar gap in the ranks of the skilled labor force since no apprenticeships were being trained during the conflict. He urged that immediate steps be taken to prepare for a resumption of apprentice programs.

AS A RESULT of Mooney's suggestion, San Rafael School Supt. Oliver Hartzell called a meeting of all members of the various joint apprenticeship committees for Dec. 13, 1943, to analyze the labor future of Marin. The result was an agreement that something had to be done on the county level. And that something, it was decided, was a leading part by the committee in assisting returning veterans and others seeking training in skilled trades to fill the labor gap created by the war.

The committee set up to tackle this big job consisted of Hartzell; Ralph Murphy, general contractor; James W. Wall of the sheetmetal union;

Here Mosier receives instruction from Tucker, left, on the necessity for exact measurement in boring a hole for the pierce punch.

GALE MOSIER gets an advance look at the state trade certificate which he will receive next Saturday in ceremonies at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. The presentation will mark his official graduation from apprentice to journeyman status. Showing him the certificate is Herman J. Edward W. Culver of the plumbers' union; Rexford Ruggles of the San Rafael Independent; Harry Russell, vice principal of the Tamalpais High School; Herman J. Hale of the machinists' union, and Ward H. Austin, president of Marin Junior College.

These men called a meeting of interested persons for Jan. 10, 1944, to discuss the possibility of establishing a Marin County Apprenticeship Council made up of equal representation from labor and management, and to recommend that the facilities of Marin Junior College, San Rafael High School and Tamalpais High School be used for apprenticeship training.

It was decided to create the council, patterned after the joint trade committees. And a council made up of craftsmen, employers, educators, public relations men and state agency representatives was elected. Included were Hale, Guido Mariani, Walter Mazza and Louis Robello from the ranks of labor; Herb Dohemann, Ralph Murphy, Delmar Turney and H. B. Warner, representing management, and educators Austin, Ed Wells and Jules Chouree.

SERVING AS consultants were William Gruitt of the U. S. Employment Service, Eugene W. Norton of the U.S. Department of Labor's apprenticeship training division, and Ruggles for public relations.

The council held 12 meetings between January and June to shape its program, preparing a constitution and by-laws, surveying the apprenticeship training opportunities and work situation in the county, and meeting with employer and labor representatives to encourage training programs.

Plans were laid for allocation of apprentices and arrangements made for supplemental training for journeymen workers on war assembly jobs.

Apprentice classes were established. And apprentice training standards were developed and apprentices registered on state agreements.

On July 31, 1944, the council's constitution and by-laws were approved by Paul Scharrenberg, director of the Department of Industrial Relations, and Archie J. Mooney, chief of the department's Division of Apprenticeship Standards. This made Marin County one of the first in the state to be able to offer planned and approved procedures for apprenticeship training.

In 1945 eight labor-management joint apprenticeship committees were established, and 50 young men were in training in the various trades in Marin.

On June 5, 1947, the first completion ceremony was held at the San Rafael High School with 18 "graduates" receiving their certificates signifying their advancement to journeyman status.

SINCE 1947 there has been a completion ceremony annually, with an average of 60 apprentices finishing their training each year.

Next Saturday the 1961 completion ceremony will be held at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. Fifty-eight young men, including Gale Mosier, will receive their state trade certificates. Three hundred other men and boys are still in training in the county at various trades.

California is observing Apprenticeship Month through June with the slogan: "Industry, plan ahead—train an apprentice." "It is a fact that unless we step up apprenticeship training, we will face a critical shortage of skilled workers," apprentice program leaders state.

What is need, they say, are training opportunities for more young men like Gale Mosier, quick to learn and adept with their hands.

And the apprentice program is just the thing to provide them, they believe.

How Jeff Landed His Job

Jeff Skov of Kentfield has had a busy time of it this past year at Redwood High School from which he was graduated this past week.

He was an honor student and active in the Honor Society and the California Scholastic Federation. He held offices in the Hi-Y, an affiliate of the YMCA. He was co-editor of the school newspaper and sports announcer for the school. He was active in student government, in the foreign language society, and in sports.

In his spare time he worked as a market clerk and as a soda jerk.

Now he's in for a busy summer as well. He has been accepted at Stanford University and preparing for college entails many things — not the least of which is accumulating money.

Jeff, like hundreds of his fellow graduates in Marin County, will be spending a good deal of his "summer vacation" at work. He's one of the fortunates who has already landed a job. He'll be working full time for the Paul Daly Swim School in Larkspur as an instructor.

Most of what Jeff earns this summer will be banked for college expenses. Some will be invested in clothes for the school year ahead. Some will be used to maintain his 1952 Plymouth for which he paid $100, an investment in both utility and leisure. And some, of course, will be spent for extra-curricular activities like dating.

Many other young students in Marin County are not so fortunate as Jeff. They have not lined up jobs yet, although they are looking. Some of them will be attending summer school, but even many of those want part-time work.

They're not particular. Nat-

THE FIRST STEP taken by Jeff Skov, a 1961 Redwood High School graduate, when he set out to find a summer job was this interview with Robert J. Maher, right, who serves as the Tamalpais High School District's work experience coordinator. Maher suggested that Jeff apply with the Marin Youth Employment Committee at the state employment office.

WHEN ESTHER WEEKS, employment office interviewer, registered Jeff at the state employment office at 807 E St., San Rafael, she learned that the youth had had experience as a swimming instructor, and that he held credentials as a Red Cross lifeguard and water safety instructor.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Sound engineers and specialists are constantly trying to improve the ability to capture and reproduce sounds with all of the original naturalness. Stereo Hi-Fi equipment has come a long way toward reaching this naturalness, but the most important consideration of all is the human ear. We know very little about the remarkable abilities of the ear, and as yet we have not been able to duplicate these remarkable abilities electronically.

Consider the following for a moment then experiment for yourself and you will discover the remarkable achievements of the ear that you may never have noticed before. When you are at a party or in a crowded room and you are carrying a conversation with another individual, your ear "Tunes Out" the enormous intensity of the surrounding noise. Let someone across the room mention your name, and your ear reaches out through all of the noise and picks out that one conversation. Become disinterested in the immediate conversation in your group and you notice how noisy and garbled everything is. When you're out on a busy downtown intersection talking with a friend, you don't even hear the intense traffic and street noises. However, if all of this is recorded monaurally on a tape recorder and played back, you can no longer pick out a conversation clear across the room or reject unwanted sounds while listening to a particular sound. You can see, we still have a long way to go. Stereo and Binaural Sound, and maybe other factors are steps in the right direction.

Summer Jobs Needed For Teen-Agers

urally, as with all of us, they would prefer to do what they like best, which may simply mean what they know best. But they insist they're not particular. They just want jobs, any kind of jobs. They want them for the income and for the experience, and they need them for college, for high school next fall, for clothes, or just for operating expenses. Or, in more cases than one might imagine, to help out with finances at home.

They want jobs, any kind of jobs. Helping them in their quest are school officials working through the California Department of Employment. Through people like Robert J. Maher, coordinator for work experience in the Tamalpais Union High School District, and Edwin W. Ayer, San Rafael manager of the state employment office, the students get some professional help in job placement for the summer.

Maher supervises Tam district students who work part-time during the school year and is in contact with local employers. Ayer works with the Marin County Youth Employment Committee which actively promotes jobs for students. The committee has been operating for the past seven years and is supported by county agencies, labor, schools P-TAs, and other community agencies.

More than 1,000 students have registered for summer work through the committee. Many of them have already been placed in part-time or full-time jobs, but many are also still looking for work. Some of them, now graduates, are looking for full-time permanent work. But most of them need just summer jobs.

"If you have work to be done around your house, yard or business," Ayer urges, "call the state employment office in San Rafael."

The teen-agers are a willing host of workers, Maher and Ayer state. They're registered and screened. They're ready and willing.

NATURALLY, some of Jeff Skov's summer job earnings go for recreation. His date for some bowling at the Greenbrae Lanes is pretty Dianne Rogers of Corte Madera.

AND SINCE he plans to go to college, some of his pay must be invested in school clothes. The salesman at Macy's in San Rafael is William Doyle, manager of the men's wear department.

BUT MOST OF Jeff's summer earnings are deposited in the bank—to finance his college education. Accepting his deposit at the drive-in cage at the Crocker-Anglo First National Bank in Kentfield is teller Jackie Fowler.

CAMPING EXPERTS I. D. Brazell of Strawberry and Walter Carter of San Anselmo supervise a lesson in proper use of a jackknife for daughters Dale Brazell of Girl Scout Intermediate Troop 71 and Deborah Carter of Brownie Troop 165. The spectator is Virginia Carter, associate scout and member of the council's selection committee. Both men are members of the Treasure Mountain Camp development committee, and Carter is chairman of the established camp committee.

Dad's Day

The Year Around

MUSICAL APPRECIATION also has its place in the warm relationship between fathers and daughters which the Girl Scout movement encourages. Here Stephen Kaufmann of Strawberry and Edward W. Bullard Jr. of Ross listen to a piano duet of Girl Scout songs by daughters Janice Kaufmann, Intermediate Troop 71, and Elizabeth Bullard, Troop 121. The men serve on the finance committee.

DEXTER McKELVEY of Mill Valley is another father who enjoys working in the Girl Scout program at troop level. He is a member of the troop committee for Brownie Troop 56 to which daughter Randi, far right, belongs, and unofficially serves as assistant leader when needed. Here he and his daughters, including Linda of Troop 43 and Diane of Troop 48, enjoy some nature study.

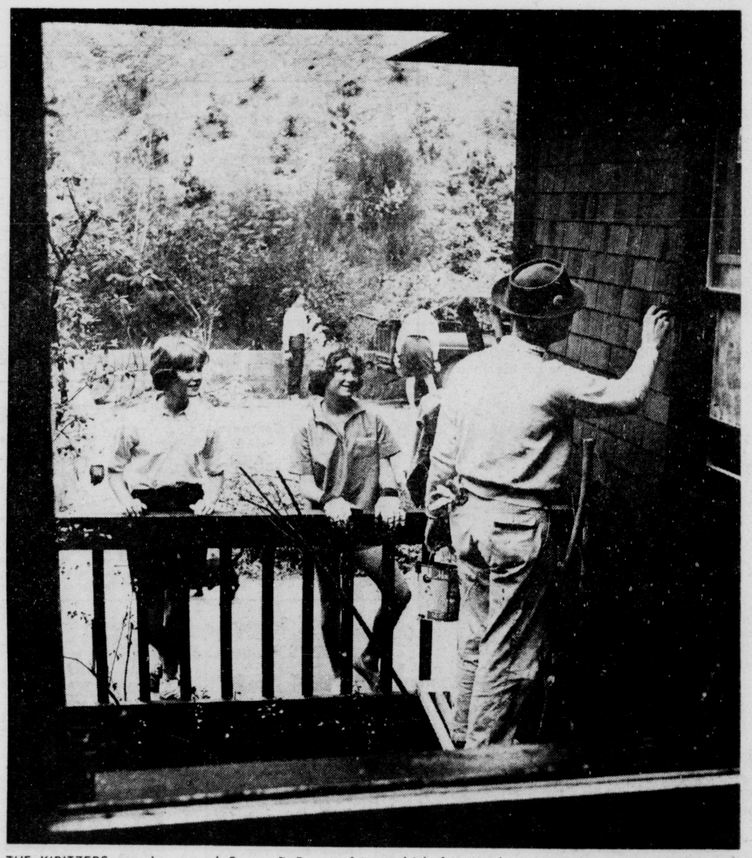

In Girl Scouting, Father's Day does not come just once a year. Every day in every way, in some useful function, fathers devote their time to making the Girl Scout experiences of their young daughters more meaningful.

This close contact and cooperation between fathers and daughters is one of the nicest things about the Girl Scout program.

The dependence by the girls upon their dads for assistance becomes understandable when one examines the Girl Scout Handbook and discovers the multiplicity of requirements for advancing from one rank to the next, or for earning the coveted proficiency badges.

Great emphasis, of course, is placed on the home arts where expert guidance can be obtained from mothers. But equally important are such fields as out-of-door living, games, nature lore and crafts. And there many fathers excell.

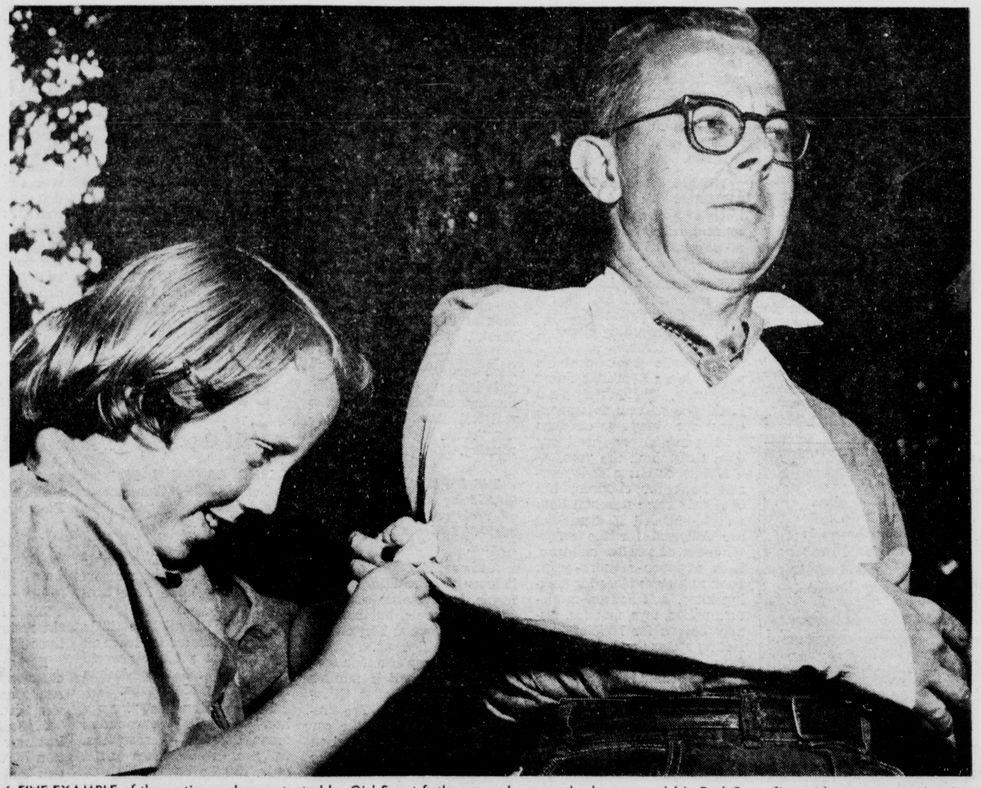

Here on these pages are pictures of some Marin fathers who believe in Girl Scouts, and who think their daughters profit from the program.

THE KIBITZERS are Janet and Susan DeBerry of Tiburon as they watch their father, Dick DeBerry, apply the finishing touches to a window frame at Arequipa. DeBerry is a member of the committee which for nearly a year has been readying the Arequipa property in Fairfax for use as a day and troop camp and as a conference and training center. Janet belongs to Marinership Troop 20 and Susan to Intermediate Troop 53.

CINCHING UP A bowline is Mariner Elizabeth Jones while her father, Robert E. Jones, watches to see that the feat is properly performed. Elizabeth is a member of Marinership 132. Jones is a registered associate scout and served as assistant leader while his daughter was an intermediate scout. (Photos by Bob Hax, Independent-Journal staff photographer)

A FINE EXAMPLE of the patience demonstrated by Girl Scout fathers is James A. Rowen of Terra Linda as he portrays a patient here for daughter Patricia who practices the art of making an arm sling. Rowen, an associate scout, is invaluable to Intermediate Troop 232 because he has passed his Red Cross first aid course — and a first aider must accompany troops on many activities. Another daughter, Diana, received her Curved Bar, highest award in intermediate scouting, last year.

Artist-Turned-Author Writes Strangest Novel Of The Year

BREAKDOWN by John Bratby, World Publishing Co., 336 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

John Bratby is one of England's more controversial artists. And with this first novel, he has made his bid for similar status in the ranks of writers.

As in his painting, he has a writing style uniquely his own. The closest approximation that comes readily to our mind is that of this country's Jack Kerouac. There's the same rejection of the usual disciplines of the writer, the same fatalistic outlook on life, the same preoccupation with the non-conformist categories of our society.

But there are differences, too. Bratby, for instance, seldom creates the sense of excitement and movement that Kerouac does for us (although not all readers feel this). His writing has much less impact. On the other hand, the Englishman is, as might be expected of an artist, fascinated with the descriptive, of persons, places and events. And usually effective at it, although at times resorting to caricature. Then, too, Bratby frequently demonstrates a sense of humor that would be disdained by Kerouac.

"Breakdown" is the story of the moral and mental disintegration of an English artist named James Brady. Bratby admits that he has drawn to some extent upon his own experiences, but denies the book is autobiographical.

The incidents are lurid, often implausible. Sometimes they seem trivial, or totally irrelevant to the story.

We started with an attitude of dismay at the disorganization of the early chapters, progressed by mid-book to a confused reaction somewhere between fascination and impatience with the affectations of the author, and ended up, while still puzzled, also interested and entertained in spite of ourselves.

We wouldn't presume to predict what your reaction to the book might be, for we suspect it triggers a purely individualistic response. But we do think that you will agree that it is certainly different.

Incidentally, Bratby's black and white illustrations in his distinctive style, are no small part of the book's off-beat appeal.

WINIFRED WOLFE
A new novel

IF A MAN ANSWERS by Winifred Wolfe, Doubleday and Co., 261 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This is an amusing bit of fluff in the pattern of the same author's earlier "Ask Any Girl."

Chantal Stacey has inherited her French mother's romantic outlook along with her Bostonian father's restraining conscience. The result is an inner conflict which becomes still more complicated when she meets photographer Eugene Wright. Her first campaign to win him over to marriage is successful, she then faces a second and more difficult challenge of retaining his interest.

Miss Wolfe tells her story with wit and gaiety. It's far from an important novel. But it is fun.

THINGS TO MAKE FOR CHILDREN by the editorial staffs of Sunset Books & Sunset Magazine, Lane Book Co., 96 pages, $1.75. Reviewed by Frances Davis.

People who are both clever and parents will find this a fascinating supplement to the daily and rewarding chore of rearing children.

The little book contains party ideas (Thanksgiving, Christmas, Halloween and birthdays) as well as suggestions for busying children (and parents) on ordinary days throughout the year.

Mainly this is a do-it-yourself book for children, but obviously some parental help will be needed if directions are followed for the entertainment of smaller children. It is a paper-scissors-paint book that gives ideas for making kites, doll houses, miniature patios, toys, mobiles, display boards for hobbies, collecting stamps and coins, and for playing games.

There cannot be negative criticism of a book that provides ideas for so many hours of entertainment, education and instruction for children.

It could be said that such well-illustrated articles on how to do it might kill imagination and work as a force against individuality. On the other hand "Things to Make for Children" may be only a starting point toward better things.

It's worth trying.

FELL'S OFFICIAL STAMP GUIDE, by Franklin R. Bruns Jr., Frederick Fell, Inc., 123 pages, $1.98. Reviewed by Bryce Anderson.

Franklin R. Bruns Jr., director of philately for the U. S. Post Office Department and stamp editor of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, is one of the better writers among the country's philatelic experts.

In "Fell's Official Stamp Guide," he presents briefly and clearly a great amount of material that is especially valuable to the beginning stamp collector—and valuable, too, to the more advanced collector who may have forgotten or overlooked many of the things Bruns includes.

This is a practical handbook, and highly recommended for anyone who wants his stamp collection to be something more than just "saving stamps."

Actually, this is a re-issue of a book Bruns prepared 10 years ago, but is up-dated and with new illustrations.

WESTERN WOMEN by Helen Markley Miller, illustrated by Gilbert Riswold, Doubleday and Co., 240 pages. Reviewed by Bryce Anderson.

Helen Markley Miller, who has won many smaller towns of the West in her travels with her newspaperman husband, Martin T. Miller, has selected 14 women of the Old West to show different facets of the feminine role in conquering the frontier.

Her selections include such diverse types as Lalu Nathoy ("Salmon River Polly") and Eliza R. Snow, the feminine poet laureate of the Mormons; Virginia Read of the Donner party and Eilley Orrum, "Queen of the Comstock."

Mrs. Miller seems to have done a great deal of research on an interestingly different look at the "winning of the West."

Unfortunately, she seems to have acquired her writing style from the half-cent-a-word Sunday school papers. The material should be fascinating, yet the book is rather dull reading.

THE REPRIEVE OF ROGER MAINE by Gordon McDonell, Prentice-Hall, 178 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Author McDonell, an Englishman, now residing in California, is a veteran writer of suspense novels, but here he has turned out at best only a run-of-the-mill book.

It is the story of a man convicted of his wife's murder and sentenced to San Quentin's gas chamber. The "reprieve" comes when the car transporting him to the prison and the death house becomes involved in a highway accident and he escapes. He then sets out to prove his innocence of the murder.

Hardly a fresh plot. Nor are the characters satisfactorily drawn. Motivations are unconvincing. The Bay Area background possibilities generally are ignored.

The effect is that of hurried writing resulting in a story that will provide an evening's entertainment. But it's far from a topnotch entry in the suspense field.

ENGLISH PAINTER John Bratby, who did this self portrait, is a controversial figure in art circles. His unusual and just published novel, "Breakdown," is certain to give him a similar status in the writing world.

CALIFORNIA TRAIL HERD by Cyrus C. Loveland, edited by Richard H. Dillon, Talisman Press, 135 pages, $6. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The Los Gatos firm has published this book in fine press format and binding, in an edition limited to 750 copies. It is cowboy Cyrus Loveland's day-to-day record of a Missouri-to-California cattle drive of 1850, organized by the famous pioneer cattleman Walter Crow.

In his introduction Sutro Librarian Richard Dillon of Mill Valley points out the value of the book. Much has been published on western cattle drives, particularly those along the Chisholm and other trails from Texas to Kansas. But the drives to California, and especially those on the northern trail, have been almost totally neglected. Loveland's journal helps fill that gap.

Dillon's introduction fills you in on the background of the history of western cattle drives, and also on the backgrounds of Loveland and the Crows. The stage is thus set for the reading of trailherder Loveland's diary. And the reader discovers that the cowboy was a keen observer and meticulous recorder of the events which occurred along the trail as the men braved a wide assortment of hardships to take advantage of the high prices being paid for beef in the California gold fields.

Editor Dillon has not removed the special flavor which cowboy Loveland has given his observations on what was one of the first of the drives over the northern route. His annotations serve almost entirely to tie down geographical locations. And the book is about as close to re-living one of the old cattle drives as a person can attain in 1961.

Some Unusual Animals To Entertain The Youngsters

KING OF THE CASTLE by Rutherford G. Montgomery, World Publishing Co., 62 pages, $2.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This book for children ages 8 to 12 has a most unusual hero—Skippy, the little kangaroo rat.

He's an inquisitive little fellow, determined to learn all that he can about his world which is the cactus and Joshua tree country of Arizona.

In acquiring his "know how" Skippy encounters many dangers — scorpions, badgers, rattlesnakes and owls. But he battles his way to maturity and the status of "king of the castle."

Montgomery's animal stories have a ring of authenticity that makes them especially real to young readers.

Illustrations by Russell F. Peterson are beautifully done.

STEREO NOTES

Here's Trio Of Vocalists Who Can Really Swing

By JOHN SUNIER

The Dave Brubeck Quartet Featuring Jimmy Rushing; Sin and Soul, Oscar Brown Jr.; I Love the Life I Live, Mose Allison. All three on Columbia Stereo discs.

At first consideration, the combination of Dave Brubeck and Jimmy Rushing might seem a rather incongrous one. However, it works out perfectly, and everybody swings with a vengeance. Dave and Jimmy had never before worked together, but they created real jazz history in this recording session.

Oscar Brown Jr. has been called by Nat Hentoff a "performer and writer who is so authentically hip that he never overstates his authority." That pretty well sums up this amazing young vocalist. He has to be heard to be believed.

My favorite in the album is Bobby Timmons' tune "Dat Dere," with words by Oscar describing his inquisitive child. "Bid 'Em In," is a shocker. The man swings, and how! No matter what your tastes in jazz vocalists—don't fail to hear Oscar Brown Jr.

Also pretty hip is Mose Allison, who also plays the piano and composed many of the tunes in his album. He artfully combines old style Southern "back country" sounds with new idioms in his unusual treatments. The blues is an intrinsic element in the music, and Mose's half-whispered, half-shouted tenor voice is distinctive to say the least.

Some of the tunes are instrumentals only, and Mose's piano can be considered along with the best of them.

In summary, here are three highly individualistic jazz male vocalists with two other things in common—a really swinging style and really startling stereophonic reproduction.

MRS. MICHAEL WORNUM will be at the door of her home at 561 Summit Ave. in Mill Valley next Wednesday to greet her guests during the Mill Valley House Tour. The art piece at the right is a bas-relief in plaster, done by Stefan Novak. (Independent-Journal photos)

THE WORNUM HOME, visitors will discover, is a treasure chest of fine art pieces. This wall decoration for the swimming pool terrace, done in glass from stained windows of old San Francisco homes, is by Bella Feldman, whose exhibit of sculpture and mosaics was shown recently at the Palace of the Legion of Honor.

Marin Living

MORE EXAMPLES of the original art which will provide special interest for visitors to the Wornum home Wednesday can be seen here. The teak and ebony table was designed by owner Wornum, an architect, and constructed by Arthur Carpenter of Bolinas. The wool tapestry on the wall was created by Lenore Carrington, now of Mexico. Other originals in addition to these pieces and the Feldman mosaic include woodcuts by Emmy Lou Packard, sculptures in redwood by Dick Whalen and other sculpture by Stefan Novak.

An Architect Invites You To His Home

The Mill Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wornum represents a happy combination of contemporary design by the architect-owner, and a superlative site.

The butterfly-roofed house at 561 Summit Avenue looks across the trees and valleys of Mill Valley, over the waters of the bay to the San Francisco skyline. Yet, miraculously, the superb view site is level! And the generous home and its graceful entrance patio area still leave sufficient square footage for a large swimming pool, terrace and lanai.

The Wornum home will be featured in next Wednesday's First Day of Summer Mill Valley House Tour.

The center of the "butterfly" contains the sturdy family room and kitchen, while each wing become two-storied, and contains, on one side, the living room and dining room, and on the other, the bedrooms. Situated above the dining room and looking down into it, the living room also gives the feeling of a serene tree house, surrounded as it is by the redwoods.

Original art abounds in this unique home.

The swimming pool terrace is enriched by a glass mosaic by Bella Feldman, who exhibited recently in San Francisco's Palace of the Legion of Honor. Two redwood sculptures at the home's entrance are by Dick Whalen of San Francisco, and the youngsters' rooms include prints by Emmy Lou Packard. The Wornum-designed dining table of teak and ebony was constructed by Arthur Carpenter of Bolinas.

Tickets for Wednesday's house tour may be purchased from Mrs. Leslie R. Clason of Greenbrae. Hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m., with champagne to be served at the tour's starting point at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley from 3 to 5 p.m. Transportation will be provided.

The Michael Wornums Invite You To Their Charming House

THE ENTRANCE PATIO at the Wornum home provides a warm welcome for the visitors — and a delightful place for outdoor living on the part of the occupants. Visitors Wednesday will be interested in the selection of plantings which the Wornums have made for this area.

A SCULPTURED eagle in rugged redwood hangs at the entrance to the Wornum residence and is certain to catch the eyes of visitors. It was done by Dick Whalen.

THE LIVING ROOM of the Wornum home is a story above and overlooking the dining room, as is shown here. The view from this window wall spans the treetops and valleys of Mill Valley, and reaches across to San Francisco. (Independent-Journal photos)

WHEN THE SEEDINGS in your flower garden are crowded as on the right hand side of this illustration, thin them promptly to stand two inches apart as on the left. Another thinning later brings them to their final proper spacing. (Bodger photo)

Over-Population Can Cramp Plant Growth

You Can Avoid This Problem By Proper Thinning In Garden

Have you ever noticed how the trees grow in a "second growth" wood lot? When the old trees have been harvested an immense number of tree seeds sprout and grow to replace them. The result is the familiar sight of dozens, sometimes hundreds of saplings trying to occupy the space formerly covered by one mature tree.

The appearance of these crowded young trees is far different from their parents. They become unnaturally tall and thin because they are all doing their best to get their leaves into sunlight, for to be shaded by their neighbors is to die.

In contrast, remember how a solitary tree of the same kind grows into a well-balanced, fully branched, sturdy individual. It achieves greater size and produces blooms and fruits both more quickly and more abundantly than those that are in severe competition with each other.

Your flower garden may demonstrate the very same crowding as the second growth forest, and with the same unhappy result. Individual plants grow tall, spindly, thin, and suffer lack of moisture, fertility and sunlight when they are closely spaced. These plants are easy prey to wind damage and drouth, and when they reach the blooming stage they normally have resources for only a few small flowers at the tip of the plant. This unhappy situation can be avoided very easily by removing excess plants while they are in the seedling stage. Thinning out the surplus is effective then, for the remaining plants can develop normally from the earliest age, making well developed, bushy plants with plenty of vigor and the strength to produce their full quota of blooms.

Do your thinning in two stages, the first one at the seedling age, when you leave plants spaced about two inches apart in the row, the second one when the plants have developed to the point where their leaves are about to touch each other.

The distance you leave between the plants at the last thinning depends on the ultimate size of the kind of plant involved. If you are dealing with the new alyssum Rosie O'Day, four inches is ample distance between plants. If you have planted the All-America winner Coral Satin petunia, eight to 10 inches are about right, while other petunias are better at one foot distance. The new cactus flowered zinnias, Lilac Time, Cherry Time and Snow Time, require 12 to 14 inches between plants because they make more robust growth than most garden subjects. Some grow still bushier, and can use 18 inches between plants. These include such husky plants as those of the giant flowered Crackerjack marigold.

In any case, do give those flowers in your garden a chance to show what they can do. Give them living room and begin the thinning job before crowding has affacted their growth.

The Gardenia's No Fuss Budget

By reputation, the gardenia is a garden "fuss budget." But is the reputation deserved?

Almost any nurseryman will give you an argument if you answer "yes."

The gardenia demands a certain amount of fuss and bother on the part of the gardener, but the results in beautiful fragrant blooms is worth every minute of extra care.

Like camellias, azaleas, fuchsias or any number of other prized shrubs, the gardenia has definite cultural needs. The gardener need only supply them and he will have blooms to match the best he could buy in any florist shop.

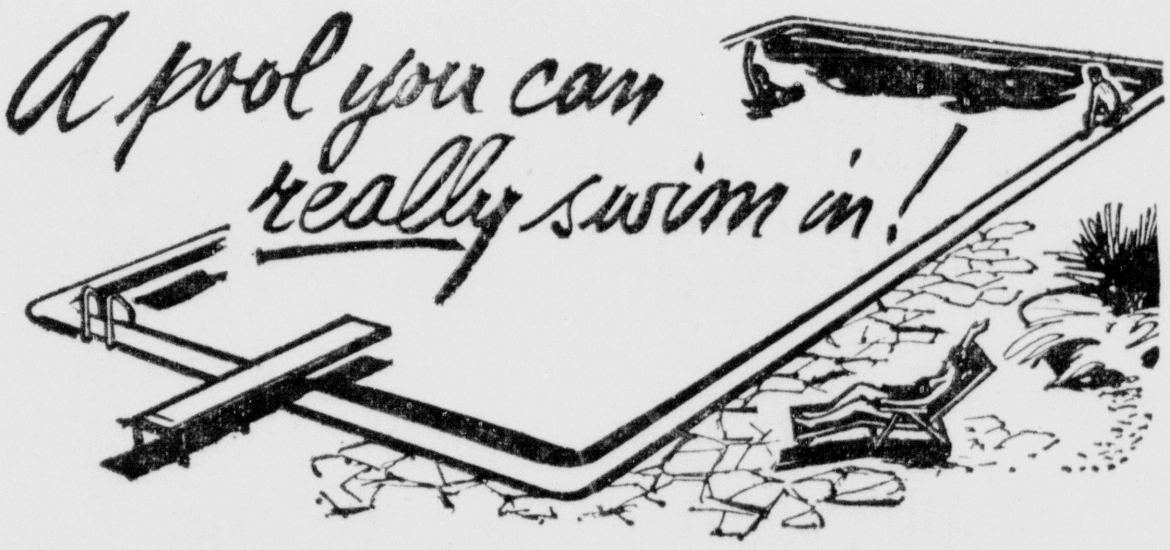

In the first place, gardenias are heat lovers. They thrive in sun and sulk in shade. Here near the coast, they are best grown against a sun-baked wall where heat can be reflected during the day and stored for some added warmth at night. A south or west wall will give the best results.

The soil should be on the acid side, made loose and porous by the addition of humus, especially leaf mold or peat moss. Moisture should always be present and conserved by a mulch of pure peat. Yellowing indicates a lack of iron and is seldom evident when the soil is properly acid or a semi-state of dormancy. If you think this sounds like something a camellia might like, you're right. The only difference is in the matter of heat.

There are many ways to get maximum use from gardenias. In fact, it's hard to go wrong with them. A single, well-tended shrub will yield masses of fragrant blooms. Two or more are that much better. Try an informal flowering hedge of gardenias, or tub them and spot the tubs in sunny pockets on the deck. In or out of bloom, the glossy foliage is lovely to look at.

The Smell Of Oranges, But Without The Fruit

One sniff and you're convinced they're orange trees in bloom. But one look and you know they're not.

Such is the story of two highly popular shrubs.

These two "could-be oranges" are commonly called mock orange and Mexican orange, names obviously derived from the delicate fragrance they impart in spring or early summer. And they are unrelated to each other except in the similarity of their perfume.

The Mexican orange is first to bloom. It starts dispensing perfume early in spring and has largely finished its show when the mock orange come along. It is reluctant to stop a good thing, however, and continues to scatter lacy white flowers on through spring and well into summer.

Mexican oranges are light green — almost yellow green —in color and airy in their looks. The foliage, not being dense, permits light into the center with resulting delicacy of appearance. They are best used as a flowering shrub border or hedge, or as a foundation planting. Give them full sun here near the coast.

Mock oranges are at their peak this month and the pure white, two-inch flowers are hard to resist. Nurserymen recommend mock oranges highly, since they bloom profusely at a time when few other shrubs are willing to do so. Unlike the evergreen Mexican orange, mock oranges are deciduous.

Mock oranges are indifferent to soil and cultural needs. Here near the coast, they can be left to their own devices in full or part sun. Prune after flowering by removing old canes to the ground. This not only promotes new flowering wood for next year, but keeps plants from growing too tall and rangy. Lazy gardeners can overlook this task for two or three years at a time, but sooner or later it should be done. The results as always, will be well worth the minimum effort involved.

Transvaal Daisies Stand Out In Any Garden Show

Gorgeous is the word for gerberas. And few who see them will disagree.

In color, flower form and carriage, they are things of beauty seldom rivalled by other flowers that grow around them.

Gerberas—if you need further enlightenment — are those luscious Transvaal daisies which stand out even among the most outstanding flowers at any spring garden show. Their formal, daisy-like blooms are of rich pastel shades and borne on tall wiry stems graceful to see. They are radiant with a special radiance that positively demands attention.

If you stop in at a nursery showyard this month, you will no doubt find containers of gerberas in full bloom. And even if you've never seen them before, it's a good bet you'll recognize them from the description above. Just look for the most unusual daisies you've ever seen. You need look no further. And if you know gerberas, be on the lookout for varieties with striking new double forms.

In growing these tender beauties, it is absolutely essential to provide proper drainage. The crown of the plant should never be set below the surface, nor below the line of soil in the nursery container. To bury the crown is to encourage an early end to gerbera growing.

For this reason, gerberas are ideally grown in raised beds—a practice that not only insures drainage, but shows off the blooms to good advantage. And watering, while important to encourage lush blooms, should not come from overhead sprinkling. Irrigate and let the surface dry out before irrigating again.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✔Prune off faded blooms on roses, fuchsias, potted geraniums before they go to seed.

✔Feed potted tuberous begonias with liquid fish every two weeks. Once a month is enough for those planted in the ground.

✔If feeding with an acid food fails to green up camellias and azaleas, use an iron chelate.

✔Plant cushion chrysanthemums for a summer-long show of color.

✔Take hanging baskets down and let them soak under a sprinkler or in a tub of water every now and then to insure complete moisture at the roots.

Television Offers Powerful Critic A Forum For Expounding His Views

TELEVISION moguls sat recently in open-mouthed astonishment while one of the speakers at their annual get-together, the convention of the National Assn. of Broadcasters, handed them and their programming policies a merciless tongue-lashing.

There was grumbling afterwards, but little real back talk.

For one thing, the TV bigshots weren't in a position to sass their critic, Newton N. Minow, the powerful chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

And for another thing, it was all to apparent that Minow's criticism of the bulk of TV programming, while making due allowance for the occasional quality shows, was totally justified.

Minow's blast was widely carried in the press. And if you note a trend next season toward more and more good shows, less and less trash and trivia, the plain-speaking FCC chieftain very probably will be deserving of much of the credit.

It is to the credit of the ABC-TV network that it is providing Minow with a forum tomorrow to further expound his views on video programming. He is to be the guest on the "Issues and Answers" show, seen in this area on KGO at 4:30 p. m.

There is some irony to this in that, of the three networks, ABC certainly has demonstrated, until recently, the most resistance to quality programming. There have, however, been heartening indications during the past season that the network has belatedly developed a conscience. And the scheduling of the Minow interview is certainly another step in the right direction.

Minow, only 35, will discuss some of the mail he has received as the result of his convention speech, further clarify his views on the subject of TV programming and forecast the future role of the FCC in broadcasting.

It should not be overlooked, incidentally, that the scheduling of a greater number of meritorious shows is not the full solution to the problem. Equally important is the scheduling of more such shows in prime viewing time when large audience can view them. Too many really excellent shows—"Camera Three" and "Accent," for instance—are now carried either at light viewing hours, or totally ignored by some stations. Here, too, there are already signs that the men who call the shots in TV are awakening. ABC's "Close-Up" and "Winston Churchill — The Valiant Years" series are just two examples.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE of a superior show allotted prime time by its network is NBC's "The Nation's Future."

Tonight's show, 9:30 o'clock on KRON, will mark a departure from the usual format for that series. Instead of a debate, there will be only a single speaker. G. Keith Funston, president of the New York Exchange, will discuss the tax policies of the Kennedy administration. He is expected to give special attention to controversial proposals dealing with taxes on corporation profits and dividends.

Funston will also answer questions from an audience which will include a number of newspaper financial page editors and writers.

NBC says the Funston appearance is the first of six such "one-man shows" scheduled for this summer, to be interspersed among the usual two-man debates.

The new format, according to "The Nation's Future" producer Irving Gitlin, "allows us to present a thesis of importance to the speaker and a large segment of his audience, and to focus questions on that point of view."

REPUBLICAN Party leaders have reportedly become concerned over the future political implications of the heavy television exposure which has been given President John F. Kennedy, his family and the members of his administration.

The GOP, however, will have an inning of its own on TV tomorrow when KRON will carry, at 3 p. m., an NBC news show entitled "The Loyal Opposition." It is billed as an examination of the current role of the Republican Party, and will be highlighted by the appearance of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. From his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, the former president will discuss, with eight of the younger GOP members of Congress, his party's future.

NBC White House correspondent Ray Scherer, who "covered" General Eisenhower through the eight years of his administration, will be the narrator.

IF YOU ENJOY Monte Carlo's Grand Prix on television Thursday night, there's another automobile race on TV this evening.

"Wide World of Sports," KGO from 5 to 7 p. m., will offer highlights of the recent 24-hour sports car race from LeMans, France. The race is run over an eight and three-tenths mile course with the car covering the most mileage during the 24 hours of the race being declared the winner. Two drivers alternate behind the steering wheel of each car. Fifty-five cars competed in this year's race.

Serving as guest commentator on tonight's show will be British driver Stirling Moss, one of the big names of sports car racing.

WE THOUGHT one of the most impressive dramatic performances of the past television season was Julie Harris' portrayal of the title role in "The Heiress."

If you missed it, or would like to see it again, the "Family Classics" series will repeat it tomorrow night. KPIX will carry the play at 9 o'clock.

Wife Agrees Husband Is A Wonderful Family Man

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—If ever a woman is quietly proud, it's Inez Durham.

She's taking her first plane ride, making her first visit to New York and Washington, enjoying her family's first vacation trip together and all because other people share her long-held view that her husband Earl is a wonderful guy.

The public recognition came when Earl Durham was named Worker Father of the Year by the National Fathers Day Committee for his community youth work.

From the first word of his selection until the Durhams and their four children took off for the East last weekend, their five-room frame house in Louisville, Ky., rocked with excitement.

Mrs. Durham, a slim brunette, lost five pounds she'd rather have kept, in the frantic preparations for the trip sponsored by Durham's union and the tobacco company he has worked for for 25 years.

The two older daughters, Janice Compton, 23, and Sandra, 19, do office work for the same company. Carole, 16, and Bob, 15, go to high school.

They all agree about pop: "We think he's great. We're glad he's our father."

Mrs. Durham says she's having the time of her life, on the go every minute. In addition to seeing the customary tourist attractions, the family has visited its first night club, met Yankee Manager Ralph Houk—Sports Father of the Year—at a baseball game, was interviewed on a network television show, and rode down in an elevator with TV's Bill Cullen.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM DAVID SMITH were photographed following their recent marriage. They will reside in San Rafael on return from the honeymoon. The bride, a graduate of the University of California, and California College of Arts and Crafts, is the former Patricia Woods Tagliafico. The bridegroom, a member of the Society of Actuaries and Sausalito Yacht Club, attended Stanford and University of Manitoba. (Ashworth photo)
